TALK: SINDHU SARASWATHI AND TAMIL CULTURE

Architect, scholar and public speaker Madhusudhanan Kalaichelvan is giving a talk on the theme 'Sindhu Saraswathi and Tamil Culture' on April 12 evening in R. A. Puram.

This is his note on the theme – There's been a growing tendency to casually equate studies on findings at the Keeladi archaeological excavations in Tamil Nadu with the Indus Valley civilization, but such parallels—though emotionally appealing—often sidestep critical archaeological, cultural, and chronological differences. I'll be sharing a few thoughts on why this comparison needs a more careful, evidence-based approach rather than sweeping assumptions driven by identity narratives.

The talk is hosted by Chennai International Centre. Venue : Tagore Auditorium, TN Govt. Music College campus, R A Puram. Date : April 12. Time : 6 p.m.

Indoor gyms for men, women opened at Nageswara Rao Park

By Our Edit Team

Gymnasiums for men and for women newly built inside the Nageswara Rao Park In Luz were formally opened recently by deputy chief minister Udhayanidhi Stalin. Mylapore MLA Dha Velu and city mayor Priya Rajan besides the GCC commissioner were also present.

The gyms are located at the rear end of the park, just off the rear gate.

They are open in the morning, 6 am to 10 am and from 4 pm to 8 pm.

As of now, professional instructors have not been appointed at the gyms and people have begun using the gym and they seem to be finding their own ways to train though this is not advisable while using what are modern and costly gym equipment.

In recent years, this area of the park was used to create compost by recycling the dry vegetation collected inside the park.

VINCENT'S JOTTINGS

By VINCENT D' SOUZA

"We have one request: we need some benches on the edge of the beach."

This was a request that two women in their 70s made to me many years ago. I had been talking to many people on the geography and social histories of areas in Mandavelipakkam. Of the time when the river Adyar spilled on to this zone creating its estuary, and hence the many little islands. One that still bears evidence of that era - Quibble Island Cemetery.

These two women said they loved going to the beach sands off Patti-napakkam. Their friends would take them there. But there was no place where they could sit and stare and chat.

This memory came back to me some days ago when I was conversing with the councillor of that area, Amirda Varshini. We were discussing the civic works she had recently overseen in the area and one such was a roundabout with a fountain on the Marina Loop Road where it curves, off the path to Srinivasapuram.

We debated on the pros and cons of having water fountains in public spaces like road junctions, flyovers and parks. Do they serve a great purpose in a city that often faces water shortage? Can they sustain in a space where our civic maintenance is poor?

That is when I told the councillor of the request that the two seniors of her ward had shared with me many years ago.

What people want and need in their neighbourhoods are simple things. The basics that improve the quality of life. Nothing fancy.

But our Reps, our state officers and the state often does not listen to these voices.

The Nageswara Rao Park in Luz has been at the core of thousands of lives for decades. But have we cared for the small things that make a park like this one?

The other day, the deputy chief minister, the city mayor, the MLA and many others finally opened a hugely-delayed set of gymnasiums for men and women inside this park, built at high cost.

I don't want to debate the place of gyms inside a park.

But who takes the time to look at the soil, the plants and trees and the basic needs of a park like this one? Issues that are at the core of any park.

From time to time we make plans to rebuild a park with some fancy ideas. But who talks about caring for the soil and plants, about recycling garden waste and trimming trees and of creating budgets that make all this happen for public good?

All we want to do is build, build, build . . . fountains, motor rooms, badminton courts, washrooms, yoga halls, gyms, gondolas . . .

Is there a space where the voices of sane, wise people can be expressed, heard and respected?

P. S. : Benches made from palmyra trees have been installed in the sands off Marina Loop Road. Simple, practical, local.

Urbaser staff did great job at Panguni festival

We must recognise the great work that the staff of Urbaser Sumneet ( mostly women) have carried out on the Mada Streets during the ongoing Panguni festival. I saw the staff clearing used plates and tumblers, plastic stuff and coconut shells all the time during the packed arubathimovar celebration on Thursday. I was told that, not only were the streets cleared of all the waste people left behind but they were even washed clean. The TN Hr & CE minister can reward the Urbaser team.

- P. Govindaraj

Appreciation for CR Pettai Rappers

Appreciate the offer made by the Alwarpet chapter of Chennai Runners to coach newbie runners. This is timely and a nice way to get people who are now conscious of being fit to be guided by mentors, and locally too.

- Steven Pius

Panguni fest processions: lighting is poor

One observation of the Panguni festival of Sri Kapali Temple: made at the arubathimovar procession. It was past 6 p.m. when the procession reached the west end of South Mada Street. The poor lighting on the nayanmars and gods did not help thousands of people enjoy the rare scenes. Why cannot HR&CE staff engage the services of smart, young lighting companies to light up the chariots / palaquins ?

- R. Susheela

Making best use of services offered to seniors

We are senior citizens in Abiramapuram and we always look out for utility services and people who can support us locally. Recently, we availed the home visit service offered by Sankara Netralaya for eye testing. This facility is extended to senior citizens of Chennai. The charges are Rs 2000 for the visit plus other charges depending on services utilised at home. The team of Jayapriya and Rajan who took care of us were highly professional and did the testing entirely to our satisfaction. If seniors need this service, the contact person is Kavita / Sankara Netralaya - 9380240750

- R. V. Rao

On new rainwater storage facility in playground

The project to create a water storage and percolation well in a GCC playground in Abiramapuram is very good. Much is needed to maintain the groundwater level in this area with many high-rise apartments here. It would have been useful, had the news report in 'Mylapore Times' mentioned the type of tank bed that is to be created. The general assumption would be that the bed will aid percolation of water.

MYLAPORE REWIND

This column carries excerpts from Mylapore Times, 1995 onwards. This week, we focus on September 1995

Section of street alongside Chitrakulam collapses (Sept. 9 - 15, 1995)

By R. Meera

Chitrakulam East Street collapsed into the temple tank following the collapse of a newly-raised boundary wall in this place. Residents said that the road adjoining the wall had begun to sink after the wall was built. Chitra, who lives on East Street, said that this happened because the foundation of the wall was not strong. Another resident said that portions of the north-eastern side of the wall have also fallen, causing further damage to the street. The area is now too dangerous for children to play, residents said.

Kamadhenu Theatre to be "debugged" (Sept. 9 - 15, 1995)

By R. Meera

Kamadhenu Theatre, one of the landmarks of Mylapore, is set to regain its lost glory. The theatre is working on restoring its reputation as the best-maintained non-AC theatre in the city. Seats are being re-cushioned, ending the bedbug problem. Also, the screen and projector are being replaced. According to the theatre's manager Chandrashekar, regular shows are going on as usual, and the repair works are being done at night. It could take about three months for the work to be completed.

New medical centre for the elderly opened (Sept. 2 - 8, 1995)

Recent photo of Kamadhenu Theatre building, now demolished

A new geriatric medical centre was opened at the "Nimmadhi" premises in Raja Street Extension in Mylapore. The services may be availed of by both Nimmadhi inmates as well as outsiders. Dr. L. V. Pathy will be at the centre for two hours in the afternoons on Mondays and Saturdays. The centre is run by the War Widows Welfare Association.

This voluntary services organisation was inaugurated by PWC Davidar, IAS, the director of Ex-Servicemen Welfare Association.

Best Collegiate Sportsman of TN is from Mandaveli (Aug. 26 - Sept. 1, 1995)

The Tamil Nadu Sports Journalists Association has selected Mandaveli's C. Vasanth Kumar for a state-level honour. A second-year commerce student of Vivekananda College and a talented cricketer, Vasanth Kumar has been chosen to receive the K S Ranga Rao gold medal for the best collegiate sportsman of Tamil Nadu. He is an opening batsman at the state junior level and has represented Jolly Rovers in the MAC TNCA senior division matches. He is a resident of Mandavelipakkam 4th Trust Cross Street.

Gamblers create 'nuisance' in Alwarpet (Sept. 9 - 15, 1995)

Some residents of Bheemanna Mudali Colony and of C. V. Raman Road have told local police that gamblers are disturbing their peace. The residents said that the group is present in the area through the day. The noise they raise is deafening, said a resident who didn't want to be named. Another added that they were unable to attend phone calls inside their homes because of the noise the gamblers make.

1976 batch of San Thome High School to meet on April 22. To celebrate milestone

By Our Edit Team

The alumni of the 1976 batch of San Thome High School in San Thome have drawn up plans to celebrate the golden jubilee of the time since they passed out of this school.

These 'old boys' belong to the 1976 SSLC batch. Plans include hosting a get-together and felicitating a few teachers; the jubilee event is planned for April 22 at Gandhi Nagar Club, Adyar. Before the party at the club, the 'old boys' plan to visit the school, go around the campus and classrooms and meet the Montfort Brothers there.

The leaders of the batch are calling up all the 'old boys' who are not in their network to ensure they attend the special event.

'Old boy' Raman says, "We were around 120 students in our batch with sections A, B & C. So far we have contacted 60 members and created a WhatsApp group."

The group is also preparing a 'Who is Who' book which will carry profiles of all the 'old boys'.

Raman says the group is also discussing what it may do to mark the jubilee milestone - discussing ideas like donating classroom needs/ equipment, instituting scholarships and the like.

Said Raman, "We are planning to have a few small meetings of the 'old boys' and one meeting with the school management before the golden jubilee celebrations are held."

Kamba Ramayana: A Study: Bhavan's book released by TN governor

By Our Edit Team

The governor of Tamil Nadu, R. N. Ravi released the book "Kamba Ramayana - A Study" authored by the late scholar V. V. S. Aiyer at an event held on March 5 evening at Bharatiya Vidya Bhavan.

'Kamba Ramayana - A Study' by V. V. S. Aiyer is a scholarly work that focuses on the Tamil version of the Ramayana, known as the Kamba Ramayana, written by the poet Kampan. The book delves into the literary, philosophical, and cultural aspects of the Kamba Ramayana, which is a significant epic in Tamil literature and one of the most revered texts in the Tamil language.

Aiyer's study aims to analyze and interpret Kampan's adaptation of the original Sanskrit Ramayana, highlighting its distinctive features, including the use of Tamil language, regional variations, and local cultural influences. The work examines the spiritual, moral, and ethical dimensions of the Kamba

V. V. S. Aiyer

Ramayana while comparing it with the original Ramayana by Valmiki.

The book also explores how Kampan's Ramayana reflects the Tamil worldview and the unique ways in which the characters, themes, and events of the epic are re-imagined to suit the Tamil context. Aiyer brings attention to Kampan's literary style, his poetic techniques, and his contribution to the development of Tamil literature.

This book is said to be an in-depth examination of one of Tamil Nadu's most treasured literary works, offering insight into its significance both as a religious and literary text.

Aiyer was also a revolutionary who fought against colonial rule and was a contemporary of writer-poet-revolutionary Subramania Bharathi.

The book is a Bhavan's publication. Price - Rs.500. On sale at the Bhavan's store on its premises in Mylapore.

Twins passionate about Carnatic music now get to perform

By Our Edit Team

Samyukta and Samhita Lakshmeenarasimhan, 11-year-old twins studying in P. S. Senior Secondary School have a common interest - Carnatic music.

"We started to learn music when we were around five years old. We have progressed from there. Our daily practice sessions go on for 2 to 3 hours," says Samhita.

The twins say they have been learning music for the past six years now. And they are now getting invites to perform on stage. For the past one year, they have been learning from the violin artiste S. D. Sridharan, who the twins say is "our greatest inspiration".

Earlier, they got lessons from their great grandmother Rangamani, maternal uncle Janardhanan Vasudevan and mother Lochana. "We want to keep learning music and emerge as good singers," says Samyukta. Ask her about their favourite ragas and she floods us with a few in a jiffy.

Samyukta and Samhita are residents of Mandaveli.

Thousands of people braved the rising heat of the April summer to find a place on East Mada Street to take part in the chariot procession of the lord as the 'ther' rolled out from its shed, on to the mada vedhis on April 9 morning.

East Mada Street was a good place to watch the roll of the chariot with the lord inside it, since the buildings alongside this street provided some shade and one could pray and watch the chariot roll soon after the green flag was waved for the first time. It took some smart manoeuvring of the wheels of the chariot by the volunteers as the ther ( chariot) took the bend near the Chitrakulam zone, to find its way on to South Mada Street.

As the chariot rolled into South Mada Street, more people came out to pray and to watch.

Maharashtrian community celebrates Gudi Padwa

By Our Edit Team

The festival of Gudi Padwa was celebrated by the Maharashtrian community at an event held at their hall in Alwarpet on March 30.

Hosted by the Mahratta Education Fund, which is in its 112th year, at the Maharashtra Nivas on TTK Road, some 150 people attended the event.

A scholar from Madras Sanskrit College read the almanac for the new year and explained the salient features. A puja was performed. Since most children of the community are attending exams or have gone out of the city on holidays, cultural events could not be held.

High tea was served to all, the popular kasi halwa on the menu.

Vasudev Rao is the president and Shyam Sunder is the secretary of this community which focuses on supporting children of the community in education.
