Nuns from a neighbourhood convent after they cast their ballots at a booth at Rajalakshmi School in Mandavelipakkam on April 19. Long queues were seen at many Mylapore booths even as polling opened at 7 a.m., with people, especially seniors, choosing to vote at dawn to be away from the searing daytime heat.

VINCENT'S JOTTINGS

By VINCENT D' SOUZA

Carpentry. Hospital service. Gardening. Which of these would appeal to teens were they asked to choose one for some training and service?

When I was in college and the National Service Scheme (NSS) was part of the package, for which we got some credits in our autonomous course, I had to make a choice. I recall the offerings were many - ranging from carpentry to hospital admin support to traffic management.

I first opted for traffic service simply because I had to dash down to Sterling Road on specific days and wave on or stop cars, bikes and buses at this busy junction.

Weeks later, my enthusiasm flagged and I asked my tutor if I had other options. The ones that were on the plate didn't really enthuse me, and so I perked up and said - Would you consider weekend work at a printing press? That's not service, my tutor said, and after I won the argument, he let me go after it and I managed to get my NSS credits.

I wonder what parents are advising their teens as they get to enjoy the holidays this summer.

Firstly, the young ones must be allowed to enjoy their season well. This could also be a time to suggest to and coax teens to get their hands dirty and learn some life skills.

Here is what I have observed and wish to share. These are real, critical life skills that a teen needs to learn to go forward. Though my suggestions are limited.

First up, communication. In reading, collating, writing and presenting.

Next, I would suggest some hands-on skills - like dealing with electrical, plumbing and all those for-home skills. May I also add, skills in the kitchen.

And then, financial management skills. More so in a world where teens are handling money all the time in different ways and will have to deal with money with their first job.

Finally, I would add community service. Which builds in us the attitude to look beyond our walls.

At this year's Journalism Program, I find myself going beyond teaching the nine teens attending it, reporting and writing skills. How do you see? - was one topic we talked about one evening on the Mada Street in Mylapore.

Mylapore Hindu Permanent Fund Ltd.: comments of depositors

● Interest payments on deposits for March and April have not been made by the Mylapore Hindu Permanent Fund Nidhi Ltd. Hope they resolve all issues in an orderly manner. Most depositors are senior citizens who depend on the monthly interest for their regular expenses.

- Ravi Raghavan

● One person, by the name of Mariadoss, is posing himself as legal advisor of the Mylapore Fund; he has joined the WhatsApp groups created for depositors (one group now has over 500 depositors as members) and he has made the group to work like Team B of the management.

- Venkat

● The Fund has to clarify to us as to

- Namasivayem

those whom they failed to pay the monthly interest, if it will they pay extra.

If we fail to repay even one installment they levy a fine and charge extra interest. Similarly will the financial institutions do the same?

Plea to MTC / Chennai Metro: erect bus shelter in Alwarpet

When will the Alwarpet bus stop near Sri Anjaneyar Temple get a bus shelter? We commuters are tired of standing here in the sun. Also, MTC buses on routes 12G and 12X do not stop at Luz so we walk 1.5 km daily to reach the Anjaneyar Temple bus stop - imagine our state.

MTC / Chennai Metro - can you please erect a bus shelter urgently?

- Nikita

This Mandaveli street is 'exploited'

Builders have started using the streets in Mandaveli to store their construction materials. Norton 3rd Cross Street is an example. Commuters are finding it difficult to use the road. Will police and local authorities look into it?

- Natarajan

'Insensitive' violations

The apartment adjacent to our building (Sri Krishna Apartments) put up metal poles on the compound wall resulting in cracks. We raised the issue with the association of the adjacent building and informed him that our building is 45 years old. While poles were removed, new fixtures came up. We protested by placing a notice paper on the wall explaining how the building is being damaged because of their actions.

An irresponsible office bearer may be responsible for residents to collectively violate the property rights of the adjacent building's flat owners.

Barricades in CIT Colony: for what?

Barricades have been placed on the newly re-laid roads on Bishop Wallers Avenue East and West areas, without any regard to rules by traffic police or GCC. Vehicles are parked next to the barricades, making the roads narrower. Will the Corporation remove these 'illegal' barricades?

MY STORY

Warm Memories of Kutchery Road

By A. AUGUSTINE

The other day I was standing at the corner of Kutchery Road at its junction on Bazaar Street and my eyes moistened.

Reason - the house where I was born was being demolished as part of the Chennai Metro station work here.

My thoughts go back - 70 years ago. I was born in 1944 and till 1955, we lived on Kutchery Road, Mylapore. Our house was right opposite the mosque, co-joined with N R Brothers, the shop which has also been demolished. Behind our house was a huge tract of land extending to Mathala Narayanan Street, with vazhai marams and vegetable gardens.

On the east were two large single-storied bungalows belonging to the State Police (today to St. Bede's School. West of N R Brothers was Tanjore Military Hotel. Only a wall separated our home from the hotel and often, our orders were placed through the ventilator in the house!

A few buildings away towards Luz was located the famous Rayar Café, patronised by film personalities like Gemini Ganesh. Our Sunday breakfast was invariably here.

To the eastern side of the mosque entrance was Lions Stores. It sold mostly imported items like Ovaltine, Horlicks, Cow and Gate, Milk Maid, chocolates and biscuits.

Adjacent to this was a shop owned by Farid bhai. He rented bicycles and repaired them. He taught me cycling. Another activity of his was these are multistoried apartments) on spacious grounds - the Anglo Indian inspector would allow us a free run of his home and grounds.

The tram line from Parrys to San Thome ran down Kutchery Road and the tram was my transport repairing Petromax lanterns.

Our home had no electricity then and his services were very much in need and appreciated.

Further down, towards San Thome was the famous Ceylon Bakery, owned by Devotta. One of his sons, Anton Devotta, was my classmate in St. Bede's. Anton (may he rest in peace) became a priest and was later elevated to a bishop.

Opposite Ceylon Bakery was Stella Stores - stationers and general goods merchants.

At the corner of Kutchery Road, opposite the Cathedral stood the San Thome Post office of long history. This has now given way to Airtel office.

Adjoining the post office was the residence of Dr. O G C Vaz, a kind-hearted person who treated the poor free of charge. Incidentally though a male, he had a diploma in obstetrics and gynaecology.

Today, much of Kutchery Road remains in memories.

● Augustine worked for Lucas TVS. He is a senior Lions Club member and a resident of Mandavelipakkam.

NOTES ON POLLING DAY

This is what Mylapore Times observed and picked up from people at polling booths on April 19.

■ In most booths, long queues and a steady stream of voters were seen from 6.45 am to about 10 a.m.

Many were keen to vote and get home before the stuffy, searing heat of summer struck.

■ Basic arrangements at booths were good. But in some places, there were either weak ramps or no ramps at all. In some schools, where multi rooms were employed as poll booths, the spaces were dinghy, stuffy and small - just not suited for a public process. More so, not in searing summertime.

Scene at St Anthony's Girls School, R A Puram at 4.30 p.m.

■ Seating of limited nature was desirable, more for seniors, the weak and the sick. Police had to spare chairs set apart for them to be used by seniors. When one had to wait in the Q for about 10/15 mins., seating option had to be a 'must have' one.

■ Many booths had volunteers/nurses with first aid/ medicines and hydration needs – and this was appreciated by people. But were these facilities in all booths?

■ Police definitely need better briefing on how to work at poll booths : many were courteous – they even helped seniors get out of cars or allowed bikes with seniors to get into the campus: some were insensitive to people who sought preference voting for seniors. Perhaps, they played by the rules.

■ The most worrisome, frustrating issue was of people with Voter ID cards who had not checked if their names were still on the electoral rolls; had assumed these were on the list, since they had voted in the previous election, came to the booth and were given the bad news.

People also wondered why they had to travel some distance from home in the re-distribution and allotment of poll booths.

Manner of issue of voting slips frustrated many people – some said the downloaded slips/numbers did not match the data on the rolls. Some people said nobody issued slips at their houses nor were these easy channels to get the slips.

■ Polling almost came to a standstill after 1 p.m. At Vidya Mandir school, location for 6 booths, there were only two people in booths then. After 4 p.m., there were hardly any people at many booths - at St Anthony's Girls School, R A Puram and at P S School / North, a few voters, all the staff and no buzz.

Mylaporeans share their voting experiences

● Srividhya Srinivasan

At Alwarpet's Gandhi Nilayam – of the two EVM machines, one did not work for more than hour in the morning. So had to remain in the queue for over an hour. Some people went back, some people got back later. Inside the voting premises, the arrangement was good.

Seniors were given preference to vote.

Wheel-chair was available. The police did a good job of maintaining the queue and allowed seniors to sit in the chairs kept for police / staff.

● Chitra Sivakumar

Our polling booth was in St. Mary's Road. We went there by 7.45 am. Not very crowded. There was no separate queue for senior citizens but the staff were courteous and helpful – if a senior citizen had some disability or was standing for long in the queue, they politely requested others to allow them to pass. As the crowd started coming in it was difficult to find a place to seat senior citizens. Schools could have spared a few classroom benches.

● K. R. Jambunathan

I am a voter of Mylapore for the last 55 years. This time, the arrangements were good (at GCC school on Mundagakanni Amman Temple Rd.) We seniors were allowed to go in our two-wheeler close to the booth; on seeing my wife who is slightly handicapped, the staff brought a wheelchair which she politely declined. We were surprised to see two medical personnel at a table - with basic apparatus like BP machine, tablets and electrolytes. Timely.

● V. Soundararani

At Luz Circle junction, alongside the temple, there were many party cadres at tables and seated under umbrellas, guiding voters, using the data they had and the slips people had. Each party had separate counters set up.

At the Central Chennai booth on Ambujammal Street in Srinivasa Gandhi Nilayam booth at the start there was a faulty EVM machine. But people waited patiently. Some went back, to return later.

● Balasubramaniam

(shared this WA message from a R. A. Puram resident) My friend is 76 years old. Her name is not on the voters list this time though she has voted all these years.

She has her voting ID and Aadhar card and staff did not allow her to vote at Rajalakshmi School / 5th Trust Cross Street. She does not want to give up her vote.

They are residents here for 35 years and have been voting all these years.

● Bhuvaneshwari Natarajan

I reside in Canal Bank Road. I came by auto and brought my 85-year-old maid with me. But they did not allow elders in autos close to the booth (GCC campus, C P Ramaswamy Rd., Alwarpet). There were no staff who could guide us when we came in; it used to be there in the past. Only such steps can encourage people to come and vote.

● Sai Venkatesh

Nice arrangements at P S High School - with medical facilities at a counter outside.

The presiding officer and others were very polite.

● Krithika Sekar

At the booths in St Anthony's Girls School, Madha Church Rd, in the morning there were long queues and many seniors standing but the poll staff did not give seniors space to vote quickly outside the queue and one policeman was rude.

A deserted Vidya Mandir school campus at 1 p.m. Five booths here.

● Sheila D' Souza

There were many booths at the Rajalakshmi School campus in Mandavelipakkam but our booth was the size of our bathroom! Maybe, 7 by 4 ft only and in there, were three/ four tables, 5 staff... the doorway was tiny - a big-body person needed to squeeze in. It was stuffy and even the poll staff felt sick.

They hadn't got their breakfast past 9 a.m.

● Ganga Sridhar

On behalf of Mandaveli Raja Street RWA we thank all the officials for the nice organisation at No. 211 polling booth at Raja Muthiah School. Kudos to the police officials, GCC and others. From Raja Street we escorted our senior citizens who needed help and made sure maximum people voted.

We also made sure to reach the voter slips to the former Raja Street residents and requested them to vote.

The police were cooperative: when we requested, they allowed the cars and autos of seniors to stop at the campus gate so that wheel chair could be brought close.

Ramnavami themed workshop held for kids

A Sri Ramnavami themed workshop facilitated by the Fabulous Fundigais team of mothers was hosted at Eko-Lyfé Cafe in Alwarpet.

The workshop took place on April 13 and it brought together 16 parent-child pairs who engaged in various activities

The hosts said they attempted 'an integration of learning with fun, through activities such as storytelling, craft, music, and dance.'

Highlights of the workshop included storytelling by Ambujavalli Nagaran, invigorating Ramayana-themed yoga and meditation led by Ahila Subramanian, and a session on puppet-making featuring Ramayana characters – guided by Karpagavalli Krishnamurthy. Each child received a specially crafted Ramayana-themed activity booklet to take home along with their puppets.

Snacks and beverages were provided by Eko-Lyfe cafe.
