VINCENT's JOTTINGS

By VINCENT D' SOUZA

January 4, Sunday. 7.30 a.m.

This was the first time in my 30-odd years of leading Heritage Walks in this city that I did a kind of a 'joint' Walk.

Veteran Mylaporean, Jambunathan, whom we fondly call Jambu, was billed to lead this walk - themed on the Social Histories of Mylapore. To share his stories of Mylapore - for the ongoing Sundaram Finance Mylapore Festival.

The previous evening, Jambu's wife made a SOS call - the senior had suffered vertigo and was in bed. I prepared for this emergency. Jambu had earlier worked with Mylapore Times to produce 10 snappy videos of the Mylapore nooks he knew well. And I was familiar with the 'nooks' which were to be part of this Walk.

On Sunday, at 6 a.m., Jambu woke me up. He was fresh and ready to lead. We had fun with some 70-plus people on the Walk, with policemen at the Mylapore Police Station wondering why so many people were strolling in to take a look at the vintage foundation stone embedded in the wall of the property where the DCP is based.

And residents around Sri Madhava Perumal Temple, curious as to why people were shooting pictures of the vintage houses alongside the temple.

The big plus of this particular Walk was that participants were from all corners of the city. And some 50% of them were young people. People who are 'local' but are based in Germany and Holland, people from Bangalore and Madurai.

Every time I walk around some areas of Mylapore, my thoughts take me to the ideas that I have shared with many people for sometime now. The need to offer a 'Experience Mylapore' Walk round the year, any time of the day, for a fee.

All we need to be organised for such a project is to have three or four trained 'guides' who reside in Mylapore, love the place and want to infect guests with their stories and enthusiasm. Besides showing them landmarks, also offer a cup of coffee, stop at a traditional jeweller's nook, pick up a soda bottle and nibble at some freshly-cooked pakoda.

Mylapore draws in travellers, tourists and new residents. A well-curated, organised Walks service will work here. Round the year.

(Note: There are 6 Walks of the Mylapore Festival this weekend. All free. Details at - www.mylaporefestival.in)

Business at food hawkers on Loop Road affect traffic flow

There are over a dozen food hawker shops at the Pattinapakkam end of Loop Road on the Marina. They do roaring business in sea food dishes, for lunch time and for dinner. But the parking of cars and bikes of their clients affects the free flow of traffic on this busy road. The road carries steady traffic, more during the peak hours, since the south-bound traffic is diverted onto the Loop Road at the Light House point.

Also, the cooking on the pavement sometimes affects motorists on bikes / scooters when cooking oil or masala gets into the air and affects our eyes. It is time GCC creates a parking lot for the diners and regulates these hawker stalls.

- Daphne

Street food hawkers use gas cylinders on streets

There are many snacks / food hawkers in Mylapore who have illegally set up stalls at key, busy junctions, on the pavements. All of them use gas cylinders to cook and these are also placed in the public areas. For example, at the gate of Post Office on R K Mutt Road, at the Mandaveli Street junction, is a hawker who operates after dusk and keeps a gas cylinder on the pavement, road side. Are not GCC's Health / Food Inspectors supposed to tackle such grave issues? Imagine the disaster that can happen in a leak or otherwise.

- T. Rangan

Chennai Metro musings

I am trying to imagine the life around Luz Circle after the Chennai Metro project is completed and services launched. On the positive side, since there are two lines criss-crossing here, we may get more people heading here to go to Mylapore's temples and even attend kutchcheris in sabha halls since access becomes easy for people in areas like Vadapalani and Royapettah. People may also find shopping in this zone a good option. I wonder if some agency has studied this effect of the Metro project. We know that Metro plans to use spaces in its stations to have stores, restaurants and even offices, what with a major project planned at the Mandaveli station zone.

- S. Krishnakumari

Park for Pets idea . . .

The Mylapore MLA had spoken about converting the GCC park in DeMonte Colony as a pets park, similar to these spaces abroad. But some people who use the park had objected to the idea. Unless we manage such projects carefully, we must not set them up at all.

- Ram Kumar V.

Restaurant zone

Going by the new restaurants, it is evident that the Alwarpet - R. A. Puram zone is turning out to be a key food zone of the city. Every month, a new restaurant announces its launch. Some offer exotic menus and some are coffee shops and the like. These are based in narrow streets. If they draw regular clients, parking could be an issue and local residents will be affected.

MYLAPORE REWIND

This column carries excerpts from Mylapore Times, 1996 onwards. This week, we focus on June 1996.

Two international awards for Abhiramapuram resident (June 22, 1996)

Dr. Pankajam Sundaram from Abhiramapuram has been selected to receive the inaugural 1996 Helen Strow Alumni International Service Award. It will be conferred at the International Federation of Home Economics on July 22 in Bangkok, Thailand. Earlier, the College of Human Ecology, Ohio State University, had also honoured her with an international award. However, she could not receive the award in person because the tickets to the US reached her too late! Pankajam is the vice chancellor of Mother Teresa Women's University, Kodaikanal.

Mylaporeans hold protest over civic issues (June 22, 1996)

Vexed over the unresolved drainage issues that have been plaguing them for years, the residents of VV Street, Sivaswami Salai, Balakrishnan Road and Brindavan Street resorted to picketing on Royapettah High Road on June 18. The damage wreaked by heavy rain over two days pushed the residents beyond the seams. The fallout of the picketing was a meeting with Chennai Corporation's chief engineer, senior officials of the MRTS project and representatives from the PWD on June 19. Mylapore ACP, A. G. Mourya, organised the face-to-face meet. At the meeting, a nodal officer, Gomathi Naickam, was appointed to help the residents. Officials said the Buckingham Canal would be cleaned and Metro Water would clean stormwater drains and sewage canals.

Augusto Creations dominates at drama fest (June 22, 1996)

Sambavam - 4, a political satire by Mylapore-based drama troupe Augusto Creations, bagged four prizes at the Kodai Natika Vizha organised by Kartik Fine Arts. At a function held recently at R R Sabha Hall, the play was declared the second best, with Augusto getting the best director award. Thillai Rajan and Sirippu Bakthan got the best actor and best comedian awards, respectively. B. M. Purushottam, a resident of School View Road, is the man who goes by the name Augusto. A qualified optometrist, he runs Augusto Opticals in Mylapore.

The annual saint Thyagaraja aradhana hosted by Sri Thiagaraja Sangeetha Vidwat Samajam in Mylapore started on January 6 at its premises in Thyagarajapuram. The evening started with nagaswaram by Mylai Kartikeyan and artistes and later, was the inauguration by vidwan Dr T. V. Gopalakrishnan and a vocal concert by T. V. S. Mahadevan.

On January 7, the day started at 8.30 a. m. with Veda parayanam and unchavritti followed by mass singing of Thyagaraja's pancharatna kritis by artistes and musicians in this campus which is located near Sri Madhava Perumal Temple. Many artistes and rasikas joined the aradhana.

Since then, daily, in the evenings, music students and young artistes are performing here.

On January 26, 7 p.m. onwards, there will be a procession in which Samajam members, artistes and rasikas will carry the portrait of saint Thyagaraja from the Samajam and go through streets of this area and return to the campus. On the way, they will also stop outside Sri Mundagakanni Amman Temple to sing the composer's song on the Amman.

Erotex Fabrics shifts to Alwarpet

By Baskar Seshadri

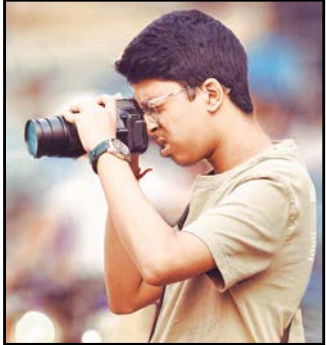

Erotex Fabrics is a popular textile shop that was functioning in Mylapore’s North Mada Street, near Indian Bank.

Recently, the shop has moved to Luz Church Road in the compound of Sri Anjaneyar Temple, Alwarpet, near the traffic island dedicated to late K. Balachander, theatre and film director. Erotex is a reputed manufacturer of bed sheets, towels and pillow covers. The printed pillow covers cost Rs 130 and towels are priced at Rs 105. Bedspreads, in attractive colours, are priced at Rs 275.

It is a unit run by Erode Co-operative Society and this outlet can be reached on 9790809827. Sathya Narayanan is incharge of the shop.
