VINCENT'S JOTTINGS

By VINCENT D' SOUZA

My neighbours.
They closely shaved
Two large trees
For they wanted
Lots of sunshine
On their hibiscuses

My neighbours.
They brought down
Nests with those trees
And made refugees
Of our birds

This morning
The bird song of many years
Was missed
Instead
The harsh thuds of plastic containers
Massed up at the local Aavin milk booth

Tonight
Tell me if we can create
Bird refugee nests
In a lone mango tree
Which has just begun
To flower.

I woke up one morning
To a dirty act.
Five earthen pots of money plants
Seated proudly under the curry-leaves tree
Had been shaved off
Some anti-social at work at dawn

Around 10 in the morning
A lone black butterfly does its rounds
Flitting from shrubs to plants to bamboo
Spending time on the bougainvillea
Before disappearing into the next plot

Tonight
I will wait in the open
To see if the skies burn pale red
It is 33 in early March
And will be 38 weeks later
I will wait to see
If the skies get charred then

Temple for Periyava: alternatives

I completely agree with Veeraswami Venkatraman's perspective about the temple construction for Periyava in Mylapore's Pitchu Pillai Street.

His letter was carried last week in this column following a report on the temple's kumbhabhishekam. The idea of having a library focused on the scriptures of Adi Shankara and mahaperiyava in the Mylapore place is a great one.

The library could serve as a place for more than just reading – maybe a centre for learning, discussions and even spiritual practice.

Metro project hits small shops: any compensation possible?

Having been a shopper in the Luz Circle zone for many years, I now realise the great hardships that many shop owners here have faced due to work on the Chennai Metro rail project. I wonder if the state has some mechanism whereby such small, re-tail shops can be compensated for the disruption.

New bridge across Adyar river needed

Constructing a modern bridge that links Pattinapakam seaside area with Besant Nagar across the Adyar river and estuary is a good idea because this will ease the traffic load which is now seen on San Thome High Road and Adyar bridge and beyond.

School-time memories

Reading a Mylapore Times report on the savings scheme for girls that India Post offers, I was reminded of our times in school when postal staff would camp in the school and help open accounts in our name and give us a passbook. This helped to cultivate the savings habit.

MYLAPORE REWIND

This column carries excerpts from Mylapore Times, 1995 onwards. This week, we focus on June, 1995

Beach to Luz MRTS will take over a year to be completed (June 10-16, 1995)

By R. Meera

The Mass Rapid Transit System (MRTS) extension from Beach to Luz will take more than a year, according to senior MRTS officials. They attributed the delay to issues related to land in Lalathottam in Mylapore and Dr. Natesan Road not being handed over to the Railways. The envisaged run of the train from Beach to Luz is 17 minutes. A frequency of five runs during peak hours is being considered.

Police advice: In summer, do not keep windows fully open at night (June 17-23, 1995)

This is an alert from the Crime Branch of the Abhirampuram police to residents who might be tempted to sleep with their windows fully open during the summer. The police said it would attract thieves on the prowl. They said it wasn't uncommon to find thieves making off with shirts with wallets in the pockets hanging near the windows or wallets, jewellery and watches on the sills. Thieves can easily insert a long rod and lift the valuables, police said.

Warren Road resident to head a unique college (June 10-16, 1995)

By R. Meera

Dr. Nirmala Prasad, a resident of Ramaswamy Apartments, Mylapore is taking charge as the principal of the Academy of Educational Excellence (APEX) in Thiruvanniyur. She said she aims to make education "practical".

APEX offers six professional courses: these are parallel to a B.Com degree course.

The speciality is that after the first and second years, there will be a six-week practice school at reputed business houses in the city.

Stiff oil prices affect plans for laksha deepam (June 17-23, 1995)

By R. Maheswari

One lakh lights were lit to mark vaikasi pour-nami at the Sri Kapaleeswarar Temple in Mylapore. Both electric lights and oil lamps were used to get to the laksha deepam count. There were more electrical lights than oil lamps this year because of the soaring prices of oil. Hundreds of women participated and helped with the lighting of the lamps.

Guru pooja by mridangam maestro's students (June 24-30, 1995)

By S. Janaki

Members of the Palani Subramania Pillai Trust organised the 23rd guru pooja in memory of mridangam maestro, Subramania Pillai at Srinivasa Gandhi Nilayam. An isai anjali marked the beginning of the event. It was followed by a concert by Srirangam Rangarajan. The Trust operates from Karpagam Avenue, 4th Street.

Ash Wednesday observed in local churches. Start of Lenten season

By Our Edit Team

Ash Wednesday was observed in all local churches on March 5.

The day marks the start of the Lenten season; 40 days of prayer and reflection, fasting and penance and of doing works of charity. A time when Christians recall the events that led to the condemnation, suffering and death on the cross of Jesus.

In local churches, priests smeared ash on the foreheads of people who attended the Holy Mass, a symbolic act to remind people that they 'come from dust and will return to dust' and that the time for repentance is now.

At the St Thomas Cathedral in San Thome, archbishop Rev. George Antonysamy led the Ash Wednesday Holy Mass in the morning, assisted by priests of the cathedral.

Said Vijayalakshmi Chandramouli whose family is deeply involved in this event, "Dr. Revathy Ananathasubramaniam and others have closely supported this effort and kept the tradition going, enlarging it to be a three-day festival attended by a large number of people."

DOG POOP ON STREETS IS CREATING BIG STINK

Civic activists in some areas are driving campaigns to ask pet owners to act positively. The response is mixed

By Our Edit Team

A few streets are beginning to stink. Streets in areas of Mandaveli, CIT Colony and Mandavelipakkam.

All because dogs have been freely excreting on these streets daily and people and vehicles that run over the poop are spreading the stink.

Over recent times, the number of people who have dogs as pets have increased a lot. But the number of people who take the dogs out for walks and do not attempt to clear the poop their pets leave in the middle or sides of the streets is large. And this is creating a growing civic problem.

Not just in Mandaveli and in CIT Colony but also in Alwarpet, San Thome and Abiramapuram.

And the stink is hitting severely.

Residents of two areas of Mylapore zone have started campaigns that are asking owners of dogs who walk them in colonies to clear the dog poop off the street.

These campaigns are in Jeth Nagar, a colony located off the Mandaveli MRTS rail station's eastern side and in Mandavelipakkam.

In Jeth Nagar, civic activists have observed that besides dogs owned by residents of this nagar whose poop is messing up their lives, people from surrounding areas also walk their dogs at dawn on Jeth Nagar's main road and add to the civic stink.

In Mandavelipakkam, when the dog poop stink hit the residents, they first had a chat with owners of the pets and advised them to clear the poop. It worked in a few cases.

Now, the local activists who form the 'Voices of Mandavelipakkam' group have installed two dozen signboards on streets across the area that ask people to clear the poop that their dogs leave on streets and roads.

Said one Mandavelipakkam activist, "If we find that a person continues to care little for civic sense after our campaign, we will ask the civic body officials to fine them."

However, similar sign boards in CIT Colony have hardly made an impact. Residents here who say they focus on local civic issues say that pet owners do not bother about making an effort to clear their pet dog's poop from the streets.

"We are helpless when educated people do not realise the mess their pets are creating in public spaces," said one CIT Colony resident who wished to remain anonymous.

IS THIS ISSUE ALSO BUGGING RESIDENTS OF YOUR AREA? E-mail a note - mytimesedit@gmail.com

“ We spend time and money to keep Jeth Nagar's streets clean. But pet owners are not being responsible. People from outside our nagar also come here to walk their dogs and add to this mess.”
- Ravi Nandyala / Jeth Nagar

“ We have begun talking to owners of pets to ensure the dog poop is cleared. We hope this one-on-one effort will work. The sign boards are a reminder to people who walk their dogs.”
- Saroj Satyanarayan / Mandavelipakkam

Free, short yoga camp for women. On March 9

By Our Edit Team

Are there women out there who have often wanted to get introduced to yoga but did not make that move?

Here is your opportunity to do it - for free.

Yoga teacher Latha Vasu who runs Yoga for Wellness Studio in Mandaveli wants to celebrate Women's Day by hosting a free session on yoga that will be open only to women of all ages - teens, 40-year-olds and seniors.

Latha Vasu

The session is to be held on Sunday, March 9, 10 a.m onwards and will last for about 100 minutes.

"I will introduce my guests to the basics of yoga with a brief talk and some demonstrations of asanas that the women will be encouraged to do here," said Latha.

Latha says she wants people to get a feel of a yoga session because not everybody who gets to read or know about yoga gets the chance to try it out.

Registration is a must for this free session; call 7598103630 to book your place. The yoga studio is located at Dr. Leelavathi Centre, No.2, Norton 2nd Street, Mandaveli.

Marina fisherfolk protest: raise issues they fear will affect their lives

By Our Edit Team

The fisherfolk community who reside and work off Marina Loop Road staged a protest last Friday at the far south end of the road to raise many issues that they say are going to affect their livelihood.

Over 100 men and women took part in this protest held on the sands of Srinivasapuram.

They raised many issues.

- They said that the plans of the state to build a modern bridge connecting land's end in Srinivasapuram / Foreshore Estate (Pattinapakkam) and a point in Besant Nagar to ease traffic on the congested San Thome High Road to Adyar side would displace fisherfolks, their boats and nets.

- They said that the state's plan to construct a posh complex of top-end offices, shops and residences overlooking the Marina would also affect their livelihood.

- They said that over the recent past, the widening of the Marina Loop Road and displacement of fish hawkers had affected their lives.

- They said that the zone must be declared a fishers zone and that all grand plans for this area must be stopped and that the focus must be on improving the fisherfolk's lives.

Abiramapuram school run by city's civic body celebrates 100 years

By Our Edit Team

The Chennai Middle School in Abiramapuram, run by the city's civic body, Greater Chennai Corporation (GCC), last week, celebrated its 100 years.

The school is located in the Thiruvalluvarpet area and has 140 students on its rolls.

Headmistress Bhadrakali said that the civic body had sent a communication listing all city schools managed by GCC which are in their 100th year and asked each one to curate an event to mark this milestone.

Here in Abiramapuram, Mylapore MLA Dha Velu and local area councillor Saraswathy graced the event where the junior students were dressed in gowns and given certificates.

The MLA said that he would do what best he could for the school in a zone where the community had voted him to be the MLA. Parents and guardians of the students participated.

Headmistress Bhadrakali said that GCC has provided all the accessories and needs the school requires.

She said she hopes the school can get smart classroom accessories and that if she and the school teachers can get some 30-plus children admitted in the new academic year, a few more classrooms can be built to accommodate the children.

MAYANA KOLLA

The annual Mayana Kollai festival celebrated in three areas of the Mylapore zone are not only unique in nature and character but link to what must be pre-Vedic rituals and practices.

The past week, this festival has been celebrated in three areas - in Mylapore, Teynampet and in south R. A. Puram.

The biggest of these may well be the festival at Sri Angala Parameswari Amman Temple located off Sri Mundagakanni Amman Temple Street in north Mylapore.

70-year-old Selvaraj tells us that his family, over five generations, has not only managed the temple and all its festivals but ensures that the Mayana Kollai legacy is held firm year after year.

This week, he and his team have been extra-busy over-seeing the 15-day festival which ends this weekend.

"If there is one trend I have noticed over the decades then it is the increasing devotion that people demonstrate at this celebration," he said.

Selvaraj says that in the distant past, members of the inland fishing communities took the lead to celebrate this form of the goddess. He assumed his forefathers went fishing in the Adyar river (till a decade ago, there were a few fishers living off Greenways Road who regularly went fishing in this river).

While the Shiva - Brahma - Parvathi legends takes on different manifestations when the festival is celebrated, at this Mayana Kollai event, people are seen slipping into a trance and ripping apart fowl and consuming the blood as the procession winds its way to a graveyard (located behind the state police headquarters in Mylapore) where the final act unfolds.

Plus Two exams started on March 3. At Rani Meyyammai Girls School in R. A. Puram, some 150 students are taking this exam. Just before the first exam was to begin, the students of this school got together to pray and to listen to a few tips and suggestions from a senior teacher.
