Court orders church in Abiramapuram to be demolished

By Our Edit Team

A division bench of Madras High Court has passed an order that the church on St Mary's Road, Abiramapuram ( Our Lady of Visitation Church) and a grotto/arch/belltower recently built in the church campus must be demolished since they do not have the requisite permissions from state agencies.

Church-goers staged a protest inside the church campus last Monday morning when staff of Chennai Corporation arrived here to follow-up on the court order. A large posse of policemen and women were also stationed at the church premises.

The GCC team which oversees the local area returned to its office after it was told that the church was in the process of challenging the court order. A lawyer dealing with church issues said on Friday that the diocese is taking legal steps to address the latest issues.

For some years now, there have been running battles inside and outside the church involving some members of this congregation and the diocese. One group alleges that the new church was built although the diocese did not have requisite orders for its building and development. It also alleges that the land has been 'legalised' using questionable methods. But the diocese says the land papers are in order. A lawyer who handles legal cases of the church admitted that the church was built without obtaining all required permissions and that steps are being taken to address these issues.

In this church campus, lies a vintage, small church which is associated with the legends of saint Thomas. It is said that the apostle used to rest and preach here while travelling between San Thome and Little Mount.

VINCENT'S JOTTINGS

By VINCENT D' SOUZA

On May Day, I took a break to go down to the north end of the Marina beach, which was once a weekend hangout in my teen years. An idea had got inside me that morning and I wanted to make it come alive.

I walked down to the place where the iconic Triumph of Labour sculpture is located and hung around here for some 30 minutes or so. This piece of art was sculpted by Debi Prasad Roy Chowdhury; he was also the first Indian principal of the then Government of Madras School of Arts and Crafts. The sculpture celebrates the first rally in the country that stood for workers' rights.

All I wanted to observe here on May Day was how beach-goers of that day related to this sculpture. And it was a fascinating experience. Most people used this piece of art as a backdrop for their selfies or photo shots of themselves or their families. Many exhausted beach-goers plonked themselves at its base to catch their breath on a steamy evening. And many hawkers, of malli-poo, sliced raw mango, samosas and socks had found convenient spots all around the base.

Nobody really bothered to look intently at the sculpture: some of them pushed away two fading flower wreaths that had been placed there that morning, showing up a plaque that explained the work.

As I walked away from this spot and looked out to the shore, before me were hundreds and hundreds of people on the sands. This is perhaps the one public space in our city which everybody wants to visit.

The Marina takes on different features, from north to south.

The ongoing work on the massive Chennai Metro project all around the Gandhi statue zone in Mylapore has affected a huge community of Marina regulars. Those who cannot stay away from this beach have found better spots, thanks to the efforts of Chennai Corporation to use modern equipment to comb and clear the sands of plastic, glass and paper waste, daily.

There is a stretch of beach beyond Nochi-kuppam that glows in the 4 p.m. sun. Pristine nature.

But as more and more beach-goers flock to this section of the Marina, the snacks hawkers, carts and trucks trail them. Fried fish, popcorn, momos, ice-creams . . . And soon, these spots stink a bit, messed up by hawkers and by beach-goers.

Chennai Corporation is about to launch an exclusive Marina zone, creating a Blue Flag beach area, where you pay to access a super clean beach with seating, shades, washrooms and decks.

I am not too comfortable with the idea of an exclusive Marina beach zone. What the city needs is a Marina Beach Authority, an exclusive team and staff, budget, infra and services that manages this unique space that defines the city. It also needs a will from citizens to respect the Marina.

Kodai Nataka Vizha enjoyable

We must thank Kartik Fine Arts for hosting the annual Kodai Nataka Vizha which presents a dozen new plays in Tamil. My wife and I enjoyed this year's festival, having seen many plays. Though not all the plays are top class, they offer us an evening out, with many making us laugh freely. The Narada Gana Sabha hall was packed on most evenings and on these hot summer days, the festival was a welcome diversion.

- V. R. Kumaran

Drama troupes need to innovate

■ It is time our regular drama troupes give up the standard style of standing in a line before mikes and delivering dialogues in plays. This was seen at the recent Kodai Nataka Vizha. Some troupes like Dummies and thRee innovate with props and digital projection and this is appreciated.

- Rukmini P.

■ Drama troupes really need to think afresh to gain audience interest. They must move beyond verbosity, predictable jokes, dialogue delivery more suited for radio plays and from 'the living room setting'.

- V. V. Ramani

Cycle rickshaws: seen one?

Has anybody spotted a cycle-rickshaw in Mylapore? Last week, I came across one near Bharatiya Vidya Bhavan. It brought back memories of a rickshaw stand near the Chittrakulam.

- Ramkumar V.

Tie-up with local schools can help Dadi Vadyar school

I studied in SKBB Patasala, known better as Dadi Vadyar school during 1953-'54. M. G. Chakarpani's son (M G R's nephew) and governor Mohamed Usman's grandsons were my classmates. Such a great school is now languishing with lack of students, numbering less than ten.

A possible tie-up with P. S. Higher Secondary School and Lady Sivaswamy for higher studies could help.

- Veeraswami Venkataraman

Smart mada vedhi hawkers

Just got to know when I was shopping on the mada streets of Mylapore that the hawkers even take orders for vadu manga from people outside the city and ship them these packs. Smart hawkers.

Sewage overflow leaves Sullivan Gardens residents fuming (Oct. 21 - 27, 1995)

By R. Meera

Overflowing sewage has left the Sullivan Gardens area in a mess, not to mention the age-old rainwater stagnation issue. Mohan of Rao & Co. said that when the overhead bridge for MRTS was built, the sewage pipelines leading to the canal on R. K. Mutt Road got choked and water rushed back to the area right in front of his shop. To compound matters, only two of the original stormwater drains are open now, he added. Dayalan, AE of Mylapore Pumping Station Depot 65, said this happens when the pumping stops due to power cuts. Metrowater officials said this issue needs to be handled by Chennai Corporation.

Rajah Muthiah School principal retires after long stint (Oct. 21 - 27, 1995)

M. V. Vijayalakshmi, the first principal of Kumara Rajah Muthiah School, retired from service.

She took over the responsibility when the school first opened in 1956. A farewell party was arranged at New Woodlands in Mylapore to felicitate her. It was well-attended. The school staff presented her with a gold chain. "I expected a party, but not this," she said, moved by the gesture. Would she miss office? "Not really; after forty years, it's time for others to step in," she said.

Crackers Sale for a Cause (Oct. 14-20, 1995)

Rotary Club of Ambattur has organised a sale of "We Two" fire crackers in pre-packed units. There are four varieties of packets, the cheapest being one for Rs. 200. There is a special Kids Pack too. This initiative is being organised for the benefit of Rotary Medical Services. Attractively packed, the packets are available at Vitan Supermarket

M. V. Vijayalakshmi, first principal of Kumara Rajah Muthiah School, felicitated in Luz and in Sriram Colony, Abhiramapuram (behind Abhiramapuram Police Station).

Best Teacher Award for P. S. School HM (Oct. 14 - 20, 1995)

B. Raghuvveeran, the Headmaster of P S Higher Secondary School, Mylapore, was felicitated with the Best Teacher Award for 1995-96 by the Lions Club of Coastal Town.

The Lions Club of Teynampet bestowed the award on him for 1994-95. Raghuvveeran has a string of qualifications following his name; he is now pursuing a Ph. D. He has been the HM of the school for the past three years. He has penned textbooks for children.

Remembering Alathur Brothers (Oct. 21 - 27, 1995)

By S. Janaky

It was an anjali for the famed Alathur Brothers at the Narada Gana Sabha recently. Doyens like T. N. Krishnan, Umayalapuram Sivaraman, Calcutta K. S. Krishnamurthy, Thiruvaiyaru K. Chellam and K. S. Mahadevan (music critic) recalled the contribution of the Alathur Brothers to Carnatic music. The function wrapped up with a music concert by Mani Krishnaswamy.

Packed house for release of 'Crazy' Mohan's books

By Our Edit Team

Bharatiya Vidya Bhavan was a packed house on a Thursday evening last week (May 1): people took every seat in the house, packed into the balcony and stood in aisles, to attend the release of a set of books of the works of late 'Crazy' Mohan, a multi-faceted artiste best known for his plays, movie scripts, poetry and community work.

Alliance Publishers, Mylapore is the publisher of this set of books. These are scripts of

BOOKS AS ARCHIVES: IMPORTANCE OF MOHAN'S WRITING

Publisher Srinivasan says he has been behind many popular and successful writers of Tamil plays to get their scripts published as books for one key reason - it helps to preserve these works.

He has been trying to convince 'Crazy' Mohan and his brother Balaji to submit the scripts of their 'Crazy' plays since early 1990 but with little success.

But after Mohan passed away, Balaji said 'yes'.

17 scripts of the 'Crazy' plays were available, all in typed form; typed after Mohan had completed hand-writing his script.

Alliance started work on each book in mid 2023.

"Publishing a big set of books of this nature is not difficult for us," said Srinivasan. His company has brought out the words of 'Cho' Ramaswamy and S. Ve. Shekher.

Soon, Alliance will publish the scripts written by Mohan for all the Kamal Haasan movies.

Each book released recently costs about Rs.150; the set is priced at Rs.4500 and is now offered at a special price of Rs.3400. Call Alliance at 2464 1314.

Mohan's plays, his columns and essays and articles in newspapers and magazines.

Actor Kamal Haasan was the chief guest and being very close to Mohan, the hosts like Mohan's brother Madhu Balaji chose to wait for the actor to return from a course he was attending in the USA, for this event.

Twenty five books were released.

Film persons K. S. Ravikumar and Jayaram were also on stage besides others.

Madhu Balaji traced the journey of the drama troupe, Crazy Creations, from the time it was a small player in the league of biggies in Tamil theatre to a stage where they did long tours of the USA. He also credited senior artiste Kathadi Ramamurthy for leading them on during the early days of the troupe.

Two sets of these books are being given to many Homes for seniors across the state and a similar donation to school libraries - made possible by a well-wisher.

Alliance's V. Srinivasan said that they are approaching schools and colleges to buy and stock a set of these books. "Mohan's humour is clean and can be read by any age group and is relevant even today," he said.

Well-known artist Keshav has created the images for the covers of all the books. He was felicitated at the event. Vocalist Gayathri Girsh was also recognised - she has popularised the venba (poetic verses) Mohan wrote.

TWO ARTISTS: CLOSE ASSOCIATION

Celebrated artist Keshav, a R. A. Puram resident, has created the images for the covers of the books by Mohan which were released by Alliance. "I owed it to Mohan," said Keshav. "I was busy when the assignment came in but I promised to work on it and did it."

In the early 1980s, Keshav was a trainee at 'Ananda Vikatan' magazine, illustrating its humour bits and Mohan had joined the magazine then; the two hit it off well and though Mohan quit after a short stint at 'Vikatan', the connection remained.

It grew close when Mohan started to pen a 'venba' (verse) for every 'Krishna for Today' painting that Keshav put out online, daily. Keshav's series depicts lord Krishna in various styles and contexts and has been hugely appreciated and Mohan's verses which accompanied them, flowed till his end.

Mohan was also an artist.

The school holiday mood comes alive in the children's play area at the rear end of Nageswara Rao Park, Luz.

Evenings here are the most vibrant time of the day - from 3pm to 6pm, children of all ages immerse themselves in simple fun and their happiness is infectious.

On the sandy ground, tweens engage in animated cricket matches or tackle monkey bars and scale slides. The see-saws sway under the weight of gleeful children. Young children, watched over by their parents, make the best of the see-saws and slides. Some others dangle upside down from the jungle gym while others gather in circles on the watchtowers to chat.

SUMMER CAMPS SNAPSHOTS

By Preetha K.

Outdoors and indoors, children are busy engaged at a variety of summer camps hosted across Mylapore. We stopped by at a few places to sense the buzz.

Jus Drums, promoted by Muralikrishnan has trained over 2500 students in the last 22 years. The summer camp at his Alwarpet studio is an annual affair. Children start with the basics of drumming and go on to appear for the Trinity College of Music exam after adequate training. Yes, sub-teens, yes girls - are welcome here. (Photo no. 3)

Jeth Nagar-based Vijayalakshmi, an expert in quilling crafts, macrame decors, fabric accessories, beads, crafts and crochet, is running her camp at her residence. She takes in small numbers - just now, four children are part of the camp with one being a special child. She says she has had many enquiries for crochet classes. (Photo no. 5)

Inganam - Stem Center India's camp for kids in Seethammal Colony, Alwarpet is focussed on robotics, 3D, coding and math skills. "There are 5 day /10-day camps with batches starting every Monday. Every batch will accommodate 10 students per batch," says Rajkumar M., co-founder and CEO. (Photo no. 4)

The summer camp of CK Wonder Kidz held in Karpagam Avenue, a part of the 51-year-old CK group of educational institutions — the CSR initiative of CavinKare Pvt. Ltd – has multiple activities like crafts, storytelling, slokas and fun games. Currently, 15 enthusiastic kids have their morning hours occupied. (Photo no. 6)

Adjacent to Dr Ambedkar Mantapam on D. G. S. Dinakaran Road, the ground which hosts a regular cricket coaching centre is abuzz with new faces - boys who want to learn the basics of batting and bowling during these holidays. T. M. Thangavel is the coach here and despite the 36 degrees temperature, his wards go through the drill inside the nets here. (Photo no. 2)

The GCC indoor stadium in Karpagam Avenue is where SKY Academy runs its camp for shuttle badminton classes for newbies. Coach Kavitha is patient with the bunch of girls who line up one evening. Most reside in this area and since access to the stadium is easy, many have signed up here. (Photo no. 1)

Water hyacinth is growing wild on the Adyar river. The massive growth and collection of this vegetation which flows downstream from the west side of the river has choked the boat jetty of the Madras Boat Club.

As a result, rowing by Club members is near impossible on some days and a tall task on the other days.

Hareendra Shankar, rowing coach at the Club said that the hyacinth flows down and then spreads across the jetty zone daily. This has been happening for the past three weeks.
