Young Akshara's special camp for her apartments' children

Young Akshara V. Ganesh did a useful turn this summer holiday for the children of the community at Rani Meyyammai Towers in MRC Nagar where she resides.

This Grade X student at Harishree Vidyalayam conducted a week-long summer camp for 15 girls .aged 8 - 11 yrs focused on STEM topics (themes on science, technology, engineering and mathematics) at her apartment from May 1 to 5.

Akshara says she chose topics that would interest the girls every day (some of the topics this year were - Brilliant Bio, Cool Chem & Physics, Astronomy, Fun with Math and Eco Crafts).

Akshara says this was not only a worthwhile way to spend her time in summer but to exercise skills of leadership. For the little ones, it was a fun environment to spend time learning and being with their friends.

Rs.15 cr. to be spent on Thiruvalluvar Temple renovation. Slew of new features planned

By S. Prabhu

The Thiruvalluvar Temple in Mylapore is receiving a whopping allocation of Rs.15 crores for a complete renovation and restoration exercise.

Technicians and engineers have already started the background work and the large scale renovation work will start within the next three months, HR & CE minister P. K. Sekar Babu told Mylapore Times.

The minister, the city Mayor, the Mylapore MLA and senior officials were at the temple on May 9 where they were given a brief of the plans.

All the mandapams inside the temple will be rebuilt with karungal. The ancient well will be refurbished. The entire temple complex will be painted afresh. And other repair works will be undertaken. Plus, rich landscaping of the campus.

Tamil poet Thiruvalluvar was close to the heart of Kalaignar Karunandhi who built both the Valluvar Kottam and the statue of the poet in Kanniyakumari, said the minister.

The previous renovation of the Thiruvalluvar temple too had been undertaken when Karunanidhi was the chief minister.

"This is an ancient temple and we are going all out to ensure that it gets a fresh new look

"It will be the biggest renovation that this temple has seen in its history and we are dedicating the current renovation exercise to Kalaignar", said the minister.

VINCENT'S JOTTINGS

By VINCENT D' SOUZA

After a great run, a whimper. That is how our newspaper's summertime journalism workshop for children ended this season.

But let us look at the sunny side. The one bright spot.

M. O. P. Vaishnav student Smurthy Mahesh, who promised to sign up with our newspaper for her internship this season, kept her word on May 2. Her first call - report on the condition of a playground near her home in Mandaveli. She was not even aware of it. Prodded on, she trudged, located the space and threw up her hands.

"There are some puddles of water after the rain," she called back.

"Talk to the youths there," we advised her.

She stuck on.

And mailed back a little news story.

Her next assignment was to write on a newly-opened 'Wellness Centre' of the civic body, again close to her residence. She lost her way, despite using Google Maps. We did not let her off the hook. She was game.

She located the place but the doors were shut. "Ask around," we told her. She did and drew a blank. "Go there tomorrow," we told her. She went but the doors were shut. She was enterprising. She trudged around the San Thome zone and located a summer camp that was on and wrote on it.

"Now you are on your own," we told her.

She took up the challenge. And wrote on the birds that have fun inside the Tholkappia Poonga every morning.

"Redo the story, you have got some facts wrong," we advised her. She revised it and improved.

The last I heard from her was from San Thome again. Trying to pin down a coach at a football camp.

But six others, all from high school fell by the wayside. Days after we started the workshop. One gave up in 24 hours. Two others sought leave for personal functions. One who showed promise also faded. We called it a day, early. There was no time to waste, on both sides.

Cut to 2015. We rounded up that year's Journalism course with a tough field assignment. One group, a trio, set off to the seaside Nochikuppam zone, the one which has been in the news now - because of the Marina Loop Road case. In 2015, the families vacated from the run-down tenements had been forced to live in tin shacks on the swathe of sandy land and the civic conditions weren't good at all.

The trio had to talk to the families, the kids there and report the situation. The young ones worked, gamely.

This week, the parent of one of the trio, sent me a social media post of that assignment.

Children are laboured in our schools. A majority hardly have a feel of real-life, not even of their neighbourhoods. Parents to blame too.

Journalism teaches lots of skills for life.

If we can teach these to a few neighbourhood teens, through our newspaper, we have shared.

Chennai Corpn. drain in Abiramapuram: who is doing what?

A pedestrian walkway is being constructed on C. P. Ramaswamy Street, Abiramapuram. The contractor is now constructing a gutter. There are no drain holes and so, the gutter will only store water and breed mosquitos. We have not seen an engineer from Chennai Corporation to oversee this work.

There is no signage either telling us whom to contact in case of grievances about the work. There is no display about who is doing this work, for what purpose and the Paying TANGEDCO bill online, in person: limited facilities for consumers. Why?

Recently, the power sector minister announced that bills above Rs 1000 will have to be paid online only. We tried to make the payment but debit cards of select banks alone are accepted. Most of the nationalised bank cards are not accepted by the system. There is a provision to pay by Net banking but there are many who avoid this for various reasons.

I request the minister to update and regularise the system in such a way that it accepts debit/credit cards of all nationalised banks. Until these issues are set right, adequate staff must be placed at TANGEDCO counters to receive cash and cheque payment for the bills generated. Even at these counters, cheques from a particular bank are alone accepted.

New Street civic woes

There are many pits left uncovered after civic work was carried out on one side of New Street, in the middle section, near Abraham Street, Mylapore. Metrowater staff did this work. We do not have Metrowater supply for the past month but the tax alerts keep coming on time!

There is also an open manhole. We also face power cuts off and on in this searing summer. And we have not seen the local ward 124 councillor around.

MY STORY

Karma, movie dreams and theatre

By SATISH CHANDRASEKARAN

There is something called karma constantly trolling us for the best reasons.

My parents wanted me to become a doctor and made me take the science group post my tenth standard studies and here today, I am practising law (as that is where my twelfth class marks could successfully get me into): more specifically, in the area of medical negligence cases before the consumer fora.

The word karma is not a misnomer - as my lifetime passion was driven to acting. Further, to mature and mould into other related creative activities and get behind the camera.

Thanks to the exposure in my profession, I was forcibly dragged into reality from my dream world, and this resulted in the creation of drama scripts which the public could connect.

My debut venture was Sathiyama Solren in 2015 - it took three years to write. It deals with how a woman misuses the special laws meant to protect them. My latest production, Bakkunu Pathikichu is on how our cultural practices have been attempted to be degraded by the commercial mafia, ably aided with the support of the political and tinsel world

My most impactful story has been Shukla Paksham (2018) - a challenge to balance my real and professional life, me being saved by a plethora of doctors at every given instance right from the day I was born on the one side, to appearing on a variety of medico-legal cases before the consumer fora.

Conveying legalese to the audience has never been a challenge as predominant terms and situations are based on day-to-day life and those reported in journals and in the media. Plays connecting facts and law make it more interesting as there is scope for creating a thrill amongst the audience. I can make them guess. 'What's Next?'.

And when unknown facts are staged as visuals, we enjoy the 'Aaawww!' reaction from the audience which is the dream and aim of any stage director and this ultimately determines his or her success.

As a scriptwriter, (Kesavan, my friend now writes the dialogues) I write after midnight. For a play, it takes me about two to three weeks. I discuss ideas orally, with a few friends and then write. Rewriting the script often.

My plays focus on politics and religion. I do not dilute my thoughts but they come out on a lighter note. My colleagues are there to restrain me; asking me not to cross the line.

Have suggestions to better manage juvenile homes?

By Our Edit Team

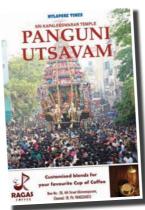

Do you have some firm suggestions on how to better manage juvenile homes and take care of children lodged there?

Then, present your suggestions to a retired judge who has been asked by the state government to study juvenile and short-stay homes and submit in four months, a report on the conditions of 'homes' and on ways to set things right.

Justice K. Chandru heads this one-man committee and his office is at 147, Kutchery Road, Mylapore. You can post your suggestions or drop them off - the committee head is here on weekdays between 3 and 5 p.m. The retired judge has been asked to submit a report on infrastructure, health and medical facilities and aftercare provided at such 'homes' where juveniles are housed here for alleged crimes or conviction. In recent months, boys have escaped from one or two 'homes' in the state.

Minister says permanent officer to be appointed soon at Sri Kapali Temple

By S. Prabhu

A new long-term Joint Commissioner (JC) will be appointed at Sri Kapaleeswarar Temple before the end of the month, HR & CE Minister P. K. Sekar Babu told Mylapore Times last week at the HR & CE headquarters.

The previous JC D. Kaveri who had served as the executive officer (EC) of the temple for over a decade passed away in December last year. Following her sudden demise, R Hariharan, who had previously been holding the post of Verification – DC took temporary charge as the EO.

Given that this is one of the richest and busiest temples in the state, the appointment of a full-fledged permanent JC is key.

Citing the reason for the delay, Sekar Babu said that three JCs had retired recently and three more are to retire shortly. He said the promotion panel to the JC grade was under process and will happen soon.

Over the recent years, Sekar Babu has taken a number of initiatives for the Kapaleeswarar Temple including setting up a large LCD screen that telecasts pradosham, initiating the live webcast of hundi counting, setting up of a new book stall inside the temple complex and digitisation of ticket sales.

Under his guidance, the Maha Sivarathri event has seen two years of the grandest celebrations in 2022 and 23 with non-stop 12-hour cultural programme at the erstwhile PS School ground.

Watch large flock of birds in Adyar's estuarine waters

By Smruthy Mahesh

Here is a summertime sight you may want to enjoy. But you must be up early to be lucky.

Around six in the morning, a large flock of birds can be seen in the estuarine waters of the Adyar river and you can sight them on the bridge that leads from Karpagam Avenue to the Mandaveli side.

The birds include herons, kingfishers, pelicans, wood-peckers and cranes.

The waters are part of the sprawling Tholkappia Poonga (Adyar Poonga) nature reserve that was restored from a marshy wasteland some years ago.

"I love taking my morning walks across this bridge. Being a nature lover, I stop to see these birds" said

The campaign has been raises funds to support family This effort was promoted by Vanisir Raghupathi on the Milaap platform.

Tragedy of Mandaveli duo: community drive

By Our Edit Team

A community effort launched to raise financial support for the Mandaveli family that lost its head and his daughter at Yercaud has been a great success, with support flowing from all sides.

Sundaralakshmi (aged 41) lost her husband (Balamurali, 43 years) and her schoolgoing daughter (Sowmya – 13 years) in a terrible tragedy at Yercaud falls last week. Both of them slipped from a rock and sustained fatal head injuries.

A note circulated online to raise funds stated that 'Balamurali was the only child to his aged parents and also the only earning member of his family. Sundaralakshmi has a three-year old daughter (Sai Shwetha).

This fundraiser was started to support the family who have lost two loved ones.

Award for veena artiste Kalyani Ganesan

Veena artiste Kalyani Ganesan, a Mylaporean, will be decorated with the NadhaBrahma Vidhyavarithi Gottuvadyam Sri Narayana Iyengar Award on Saturday, May13 by the Nadopasana Music Trust.

The event is at Bharatiya Vidya Bhavan's mini hall on the 2nd floor and the guest is former chief election commissioner, T. S. Krishnamurthy. Event starts at 6 p.m.

There will be a veena concert by the artiste after the award function. Open to all. Mahesh, a resident of Karpagam Avenue.

Rajeshwari, another resident says, she too enjoys the sight of the birds. "But I wish people do not litter here and leave a mess on the bridge."

Another place to watch the birds, best done in the evening, at dusk, is from the pavement on D. G. S. Dhinakaran Road, near the South Canal Bank Road junction, alongside the Poonga boundary.
