Church on St Mary's Road shut 'temporarily' by diocese

By Our Edit Team

Our Lady of Visitation Church on St Mary's Road, Abiramapuram has been shut.

This follows a notice from Chennai Corporation for what church lawyers termed as 'deoccupation', which follows from an order by the Madras High Court that the church and some structures in its campus were unauthorised since they did not have the requisite building permissions, and that they must be demolished.

Church-goers told Mylapore Times that Masses on Sunday last were held and that they were told that the church will be shut 'temporarily' from Sunday night.

They also showed a communication from the archbishop, Rev. George Antonysamy that the church would be temporarily closed, that parishioners must attend religious services at other churches and that the pastoral council of the church and other bodies 'cease to exist'. This note has been stuck on the main door of the church.

Locked main door of the Church

Lawyers who represent the diocese said that legal steps are being taken to address the issues.

An ugly situation was witnessed at the Bishop's House in San Thome last week, when a group of people, said to be parishioners of the Abiramapuram church, staged a protest against the diocese and archbishop. Following this, Rev. Antonysamy issued the 'church closure' order.

The heritage, small church in the same campus is also locked as is the office and residence of the parish priest.

Some weeks ago, GCC had sealed the structure that was to be a grotto and bell tower on this campus, saying that the church did not have requisite permission to construct this.

People of the area and outside who visit the church campus now pray at the statues of Mary and leave.

'Shradhanjali' for V. Jayaraman

The Mylapore Academy is hosting a 'Shradhanjali' for chartered accountant V. Jayaraman of Mandaveli who passed away May 5. This event is on May 20, 6 pm at the mini hall at Bharatiya Vidya Bhavan. Some leading lights like Justice S. Jagadeesan are expected to speak at this tribute meet.

Open to all.

VINCENT's JOTTINGS

By VINCENT D' SOUZA

How do you convert discarded flowers at temples into fragrant sambrani?

This past week, this is the story that has reached me. And its roots are in the annual Mylapore Festival which I curate and direct on the eve of the Pongal festival, fully supported by Sundaram Finance.

This street cultural festival may be for four days in January but its threads run through the year. Last week, for example, I bounced the idea of designing a Harikatha-like performance which can involve a bunch of 8/10 children, themed on folk and contemporary tales which could interest audiences in a school or at a small, cosy venue at the 2026 edition of the Mylapore Festival.

And then, there are ideas that trigger at the Festival and that is where the sambrani story is pegged. Now, Malathy who runs Munnetram Trust in Mogappair was one of the 25-odd self-help groups who participated in the Festival this January. For some 15-plus years, I have collaborated with the TN Women's Development Corporation to host SHG women at the Bazaar we lay out alongside the tank of Sri Kapali Temple.

Mandaveli's Ganga Sridhar, who volunteered to network for our Festival, kept in touch with Malathy long after the event was over and brought her to a recent Earth Day event held in R. A. Puram where Malathy led a workshop on sustained, eco-products-making. The community of local residents' associations also inspired and worked along with Malathy to convert flowers left over at one temple in Mylapore to make sambrani, helped her to package it smartly and brand it.

The Earth Day and Malathy stories took me to the topic of Residents' Welfare Associations (RWAs).

A large and diverse neighbourhood like Mylapore is poor as far as RWA histories is concerned. Only a few are hyper-active. A few are letter-head driven. A few have annual or soft events. And one or two are sustained by self-entered people to ingratiate with elected people, local state agency staff and the like.

This has to change. For, RWAs can do an awful lot for communities.

Perhaps, small activities can be easy starters to get residents involved. How about pooling garden waste locally and recycling it at a pit 'loaned' from Chennai Corporation at a park or a playground?

How about asking the local councillor to host a gram sabha meet, attending it where you can present local issues and discuss doable projects? The presence of even five or seven residents makes a difference.

How about taking a simple survey and recording data on senior citizens in the colony, networking via WhatsApp, sharing critical contacts and information, and hosting a fun meet-up at the local park once a month?

And if there is a RWA whose members may want to learn the skills that people like Malathy have mastered, which will help some people make and sell sambrani and soaps locally, I am sure Malathy will be glad to hold a workshop.

On developments at church in Abiramapuram

● Refer your report in Mylapore Times dated May 5, titled "Tense Morning at Church Premises on St. Mary's Road". This is a textbook example of journalistic dereliction. It is a puff piece that obscures judicial findings, trivializes land encroachment, and romanticizes lawlessness in the garb of heritage and faith.

The state officials were at the church following a Madras High Court order. The court found that the main church building, grotto and bell tower were constructed without statutory approvals on government poramboke land—public land meant for communal benefit, not private religious expansion.

The church 'forged' documents to justify illegal constructions. These forgeries were exposed in court. The casual mention that the church was "built without obtaining all required permissions" should not be a side note—it is a central criminal issue.

It's deeply troubling to see a local newspaper, with presumed loyalty to the truth, turn into a mouthpiece for institutional illegality.

- Writer of this letter remains anonymous

● The Church leadership is fiercely fighting to preserve a structure that was illegally built—an edifice raised without proper permits or respect for the law. Rather than acknowledging their wrongdoing or seeking reconciliation, they are rallying the congregation to defend what should never have been erected in the first place. They frame it as a spiritual attack, twisting the narrative to paint themselves as persecuted saints rather than lawbreakers.

Sukha Nivas: loads of memories

■ Sad to note the closure of Sukha Nivas restaurant. I have fond memories of Sukha Nivas in the 50s to 70s. Chapathi kurma and masala dosais there used to be very delicious. I remember vendors selling plastic toys for 2" to 4" annas on the pavement, starting from Sukha Nivas point to Nehru News Mart at the corner.

- Ranganathan

■ The Semia bahala bhat at Sukha Nivas used to be so tasty. Miss it.

- Sarma

■ Sukha Nivas was very often frequented during my Vidya Mandir and Vivekananda College days. Sad that it has closed down (due to Chennai Metro work).

P. S. Senior high schoolers lend a hand at Anna Centenary Library

By Meghna J.

P. S. Senior Secondary School, Mylapore, has taken the initiative to organise community service events for high schoolers, making five hours of community service compulsory for the completion of each academic year.

The first community service event of 2025-26 took place at Anna Centenary Library in Kotturpuram from May 12 to 16.

Students who volunteered were split into eight shifts, with each shift lasting three hours—morning and afternoon batches on each of the five days. The library staff assigned work on different floors to groups of students who helped organise and replace books which had been borrowed or used for reading.

“This is an exciting initiative by the school, offering students a great hands-on experience,” said Siddharth, a 9th grader. “For 9th graders, this was our first experience, and it was both engaging and fun. It really helps ground students and teaches them responsibility.”

The 1991 batch of P. S. Senior Secondary School in Mylapore came up with this idea so that even the seniors could have some fun

ALUMNI BRING PARENTS TO THE PARTY

By Our Edit Team

This was an alumni meet with a big difference: the 'old boys and girls' brought along their parents and their children to the party. And it turned out to be really unique.

The 1991 batch of P. S. Senior Secondary School in Mylapore worked hard on the idea and made it happen on March 23. At the end of that day, there were emotional and warm moments to take home and a bag of memories that will remain with those who were present, for a long, long time.

The batch of 1991 is of 100 students: 60 are active on a WhatsApp group. Some 20 are currently in Chennai, and the rest are all over the world.

The batch met in 2016 to mark its 25th year of graduation and since then, has been meeting in smaller groups, a few times a year.

The 25th year Reunion of the 1991 batch, held in December 2016 at the school campus.

The batch donated Rs. 32 lakhs to the school to sponsor a scholarship for two bright students who need financial support every year.

The school pupil leader of the 1991 batch, Navin M. Ram had organised a trip to Thanjavur in December 2024, and a dozen families went on it.

Post this trip, the classmates wanted a meetup for their parents as well, as they realised most of their classmates' parents were living alone in Chennai.

The idea caught fire, plans were drawn up and the party was held at the Gandhi Nagar Club in Adyar. Present were 10 batchmates and about 25 parents of the alumni.

As the party moved up after a formal launch at noon that day and pleasantries were done, it was rewind time - some alumni and the parents raved about Ms. Alamelu, the then principal of P. S. Senior. Lots of anecdotes were shared by parents who vividly painted pictures of the school rush-hours and the scenes at the school gate, the lively meetings with other parents and the interaction with teachers.

Said one 'old boy', "This time we could only manage to co-ordinate with the parents of our batchmates who reside in Chennai. There were some 10 people who were above the age of 80 who made it.

We even had people in wheel-chairs. This made it really wonderful."

One of the parents present had also worked in the school as a teacher for three decades. Some of the mothers of the alumni had met each other and knew them well, but all their fathers were meeting each other for the first time.

This batch plans to do such meets periodically "to give their classmates' parents an opportunity to step out and interact with people of their age and also enjoy some fun time."

What made this lunch party a talking point too was the attention that was given to the menu - no onion and garlic, less spices and salt.

- This report is based on notes from Akshaya Ashok - she and her twin sister are currently studying in P. S. Senior in grade 12; their mother Jayashree is an alumni of the batch of 1991.

SUMMER CAMPS SNAPSHOTS

By Preetha K.

■ Summer is a busy time for Jayashree – the founder of Kalaa Manjari at Abiramapuram. She has been running the summer camps ever since Kalaa Manjari's inception 15 years ago. "Kalaa Manjari was started with the aim to give children and parents a safe place to learn multiple skills beyond academics, all under one roof," says Jayashree. Activities in the camp include yoga, fireless cooking, craft, storytelling and phonetics. The camp is on till May 23. (Photo no. 6)

■ The Bharatiya Vidya Bhavan's campus is buzzing with activities as they run not just summer camps, but also short-term courses. This year's summer camp which focussed on multi activities like performing arts, yoga, arts and crafts, storytelling, Sloka chanting and handwriting enhancement received good response and at least 30 students were part of it. The camp concluded on May 9. (Photo no. 1)

■ Artist Priya Natarajan offered a new theme for her camp on art & craft – Seasonal Splendour. "My students focus on one season for two days and we cover all the five seasons – summer, winter, autumn, spring and monsoon in the camp. I wanted to create awareness about global warming in children and the camp is successfully doing that. I am also encouraging students to think about how it can be rectified," said Priya who runs a regular art school for children. (Photo no. 3)

■ The Children's Club Society on V. M. Street has been running summer camps for over 10 years now. "The response for the camps varies, depending on the sport – we had good responses for cricket and football, while the response for chess was moderate. Traditional archery camp is scheduled for the end of May. Children are greatly enthused and enjoy the sylvan surroundings of the club," says G. Shanker, honorary secretary, The Children's Club Society. (Photo no. 5)

■ Summer camps have been a part of Mahima Cultural Centre for over 15 years. Founded by Manju B, Mahima Cultural Centre has KB, daycare and tuition centres in Mylapore and Mandaveli. With 20 students at the camp, Manju is extremely happy with the response. Manju says there is no specific age criteria for joining her summer camp. The camp which covers drawing, colouring, basic yoga, fund dancing, English handwriting, Art and craft activity and English public speaking is on till May 28. (Photo no. 2)

■ The mood at the third summer camp of Golfer's Edge Chennai (GEC) is upbeat. "We take only small batches of 2 - 8 kids max and this year have 5 kids enrolled for our second batch. We also plan to have batches in June and July for other school holidays," says Bharath who runs Golfer's Edge Chennai. Golfer's Edge Chennai offers coaching packages for kids (ages 7+) and adults and provides all the equipment at no additional cost. (Photo no. 7)

■ Postally Hut and Madras Postcrossing Commune is holding a free workshop on philately & Postcrossing - held over five weekends, this camp is focussed on the hobbies of philately (stamp collecting) and postcrossing (sending and receiving postcards from around the world).

The workshop series is being held every Sunday: it started on April 27 and ends on May 25, (timings 4 p.m. to 6 p.m.) at Chess Square zone inside Nageswara Rao Park, Luz. Themes for next two weekends - May 18: Exploring Special Covers. May 25: Postcard Journaling. Registration is mandatory. For information, contact: Mouli Priya – 7448523232 / Deepthi – 8939597122.

THIS PANGUNI FEST VISUAL HAS GONE VIRAL

A video and set of photos of a few women dancing on East Mada Street on one of the days of the annual Panguni festival of Sri Kapaleeswarar Temple has gone viral and attracted diverse comments.

During the adhikara nandi procession that took place in the morning in early April, the music of the Shiva-bhaktas motivated one woman into a simple dance mode. She was soon joined by two others and then, one more. While the musicians spread around to form a circle, the women danced in that zone and were watched by people who had gathered for the procession. While some people who watched the photos and videos later were appreciative of the women, some others were critical.

This community marks May Day by saying 'thank you' to people who serve their area

By Our Edit Team

Members of Mandaveli Raja Street Residents Welfare Association's celebrated International Workers Day on May 1 by saying thanks to 50 workers, who serve this area and offering them lunch packs.

These included conservancy cleaners, the local istri-man, vegetable and flower vendors, a postwoman, household helpers, painters, civil workers, auto drivers, watchmen and security guards of the Raja Street houses.

Buttermilk was distributed to some 100 people who walked past the event area.
