Hotel Savera hosted its much-awaited Christmas cake-mixing ceremony at one of its halls, marking the beginning of its Christmas festivities here. The celebration was graced by all the top executives of the hotel and guests.

The production and service teams of the hotel presented a zippy parade at this event. There was lots of cheer and merriment as guests freed their hands to take part in the ritual of blending an assortment of rich dried fruits, nuts and aromatic spices with spirits.

The hotel said about 240 kilos of fruits and nuts were blended with 45 litres of spirits, setting the foundation for the Christmas fruitcakes which will be on sale later in December.

VINCENT's JOTTINGS

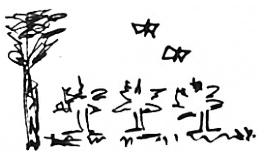

By VINCENT D' SOUZA

Most mornings, as I step out of my apartment for the morning routine - fresh air, exercises and a walk around - I chat with two people who make our lives better. The watchman and the maid 'for all works' in common spaces.

We chat about the plants and trees on our small campus.

Over time, I have incorporated them into my diversions of greening up the campus and around. If you read me well, you must have known I prefer to let plants run wild despite earning the wrath of some residents.

The maid is frail so I cannot expect much from her - I help her water the plants. But more importantly, help recycle the garden waste. We have created a dump around the lone, lovely mango tree and we have two metallic drums with skeletal details, to hold lots of dry leaves. She also empties the kitchen waste of veggies and fruits into another drum.

All these actions provide us with some lovely manure round the year.

The watchman comes in to re-pot plants, mix the soil and manure and feed the potted plants and water them when the maid is away. He also prunes the wild guys and cleans up the vegetation along the pavement outside.

The duo are willing partners, since they know their work is valuable.

This morning, as we assessed the condition of the manure-in-the-making, my thoughts took me to Nageswara Rao Park in Luz. And of the opportunity it presents the community of voluntarily enriching this verdant space that has not been really restored well by the city's civic body and is already coming apart on the edges.

The park invites all green thumbs and civic-minded groups of the Luz-Mylapore zone to engage with the park.

One group could set up a Butterfly Zone - all we need to do is plant the varieties that these colourful creatures love to hang around in and feed them rotting fruits once in a while.

Another can create a zone that remains 'free' to allow some 'wild' wildlife to inhabit this place! Another group could create a zone of creepers. And another plant young bamboo shoots to create a bamboo hub.

There is no need to do anything fancy - no need to imagine lots of flooring plants. No need to spend lots of money. Surely, the city's civic body will be glad that people are lending a hand to improve a park. This is the season to launch.

Envy People who Make Sweets at Home

We envy people who still make sweets and savouries at their homes for Deepavali in an age when most of us buy sweets at shops on the Mada Streets.

The feature in Mylapore Times highlighting some people who did make sweets/ snacks was welcome. Someone may think of hosting such people and their foodstuff on the eve of next Deepavali to sample their sweets!

Attention, GCC Street Lighting

There are two lamp posts in our street, Luz Church Road Second Street. Neither seems to have a bulb in it. With the work on the Alwarpet station of Chennai Metro going on right at the entrance of our dead end street, and with construction work going on at the other end, lighting of the street is essential. Can GCC's Street Lighting unit set things right?

Chaitanya School: request to limit use of blaring mikes

Chaitanya Techno School on Norton Road sits in a dense residential area with many elderly residents. Lately, its public address system has become a nuisance. Music, drums and the PT teacher's amplified countdowns blare out for much of the day.

The afternoon hours, between 1 and 3 p.m., are the hardest. Many elderly people are distressed.

Nobody grudges children with their physical training. But PT drills do not need loudspeakers, and amplified sound in a residential neighbourhood should be kept low and limited. We request the school management to be considerate towards its neighbours.

Tigers on stage

On Nov.17, we watched the play "Swamy Ayyappan" by S. Shivaprasadh's R S Manohar's NXG group at R R Sabha. The drama was very good - using AI technology, there were images of tigers on the stage. It reminded me of R. S. Manohar, the great dramatist.

It is said that he once wanted to stage a drama of Tippu Sultan and wanted to have a real tiger on the stage but the police did not give permission. So he shelved the idea. He used to start the drama right on time but this troupe started theirs late - may they follow RSM's discipline.

A group of 21 student volunteers from different parts of the country is participating in a month-long project to clean the margins of the Adyar Estuary. Aged between 18 and 27, the youths have arrived from Punjab, Kerala, Karnataka, Andhra Pradesh, West Bengal, and various districts of Tamil Nadu. They all belong to the Indian Conservation Corps, formed by Exnora International. The group has removed clothes, plastic items, mats, slippers, tyres, pots, and more. The volunteers were divided into groups and sent to various parts of the city. One group, led by D. Visalakshi, was allocated the area near the Pattinapakkam MTC terminus. Armed men steal jewels in shop in San Thome (Aug.9, 1997)

By A. Mangala Bhavani

Three armed youths robbed a small jewellery shop on San Thome High Road. They walked into the shop acting as shoppers. The shop owner and his assistant assumed they were there to buy jewels but were taken aback when the three men pulled down the shutters, drew out a knife and a gun, and demanded jewellery. Four boxes with gold and gold-covering jewellery were taken away by the armed trio. When the owner tried to raise a cry, the gang attacked him and he was slightly injured, said Mahalingam, Inspector of Crime, Mylapore Police Station.25 sovereigns of gold was stolen. A special police team, headed by S. Gunaseelan, DSP (Crime) later nabbed the thieves.

The oldest shops in Luz Corner? (Aug. 30, 1997)

By Ambujakshi Umashankar

National Leather Works, which makes and sells customised footwear, is perhaps the oldest shop in Luz. Its history dates to 1919, when it was founded in Rangoon by the grandfather of the current proprietor, Jayalakshmi Ramadoss. Forced to return to Madras in 1940 on account of evacuation, Jayalakshmi's father launched a laundry business, but it did not do well. The father then decided to go back to the well-honed art of making footwear. The shop's speciality is its slippers for people who suffer heel pain. Gum boots are also made at this outlet, which is located at No.144, R. H. Road, Luz Corner.

- By Juliana Sridhar

60 hours of non-stop devotional music concerts were held from Nov.13 morning and ended on Nov.15 evening at Sri Sundara Panduranga Mandir in Dr. Ranga Road, Mylapore.
This is the ninth edition of what is called the Akhanda Bhakti Gana Samarpanam and is supported by dozens of musicians and artistes, from the city and outside. Musicians / artistes take turns to perform here and devotees and rasikas may visit, pray and listen to the music in a divine atmosphere.

Give Thanks to God. Have some fun and food too

By Juliana Sridhar

The community at CSI Church of the Good Shepherd in Mylapore hosted its annual Thanksgiving Festival on October 11. It began with prayer and worship led by pastor Rev. D. Manuel Ebinesar.

The church was decorated with flowers, fruits, plants and vegetables symbolising the season of harvest. The arrangements were ideated and directed by the pastor and the pastorate committee led by secretary Y. Bhuvanesh Kumar and treasurer Rajini Kannan.

After the religious service, fun games, fellowship and snacking followed.

Some 49 stalls were set up by different fellowships of the church - by the men, women, youth, Sunday School, CSI St. Ebba's School, CSI Bishop Newbigin College of Education and CSI Kalyani Hospital.

The buzz began at the stalls which offered breakfast. As the morning progressed, stalls selling snacks like beef pakoda, chicken white sauce pasta, cupcakes, chicken nuggets and sweets like elaneer payasam and paal kozhukattai got going. They were the crowd-pullers of the day.

100 Sunday School children led by their correspondent Shyla Mathew and 20 teachers put up stalls which offered homemade sweets and snacks prepared by the teachers. Said Shyla Mathew, "The adhirasam, chicken samosas, chicken cutlets and momos sold fast. Even the kulfi ice-cream sold well."

Rosephika and her colleagues offered white sauce pasta because youth enjoy such dishes. "We enjoyed preparing the dish and it was easy to cook at our 'live cooking' counter. This attracted many people."

Many games stalls ramped up the amusement and children lingered here through the day.

Rajini Kannan, treasurer of the committee said, " The community put their heads and hands together for this event. Their enthusiasm was high."

Families also donated utensils, geysers, fans, sarees, churidars, shirts, suitcases and small gold ornaments for the auction of the day. The proceeds from the sales will be used for charity work and for community outreach projects

After the auction, at lunch time, biryani packs were distributed to those who had booked in advance.

Thirukalyanam

A small group of people, mostly women, set the stage for the thirukalyanam rituals as part of the Skanda Sashti celebrations at Sri Karaneeswarar Temple, Mylapore on November 16 evening.

A group of women came in a procession into the temple, carrying various items for the seerand placing them in front of the god, decorated for the occasion.

Other regulars at the temple joined the group as the priests went about the rituals of the evening. A quiet, orderly and meaningful event.

ALL ABOUT SCIENCE

By Our Edit Team

Over 100 exhibits were on display at the day-long Science Expo held at Rosary Matric School, San Thome on October 23 at the main auditorium.

Most displays were themed on biology, biotechnology and microbiology. Students of Class 11 and 12 were given about four weeks to work on their projects; some completed them at home, some did part of the projects on campus.

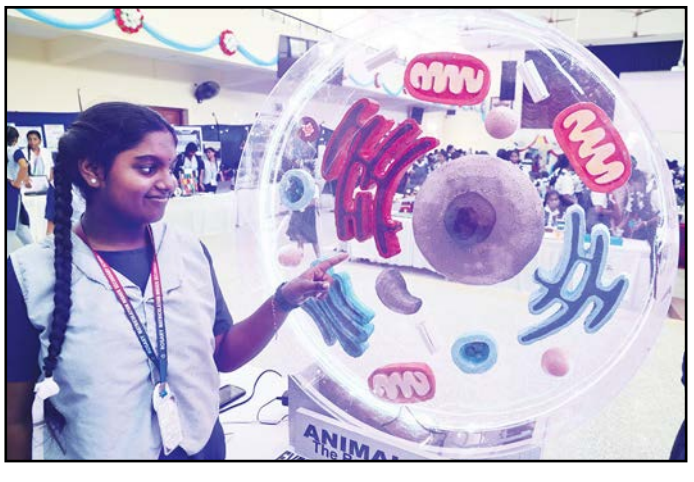

Students of Saveetha University lent a hand to the students to set up a small bio-tech laboratory.

A few displays of Rosary High Schoolers were also put on show; these had been chosen the best at their own Science Day show that was held here earlier.

A Rosary teacher said senior students from local area schools like St. Dominic's and St. Bede's visited the Science Expo.

A batch of Rosary students made sugar-free snacks and healthy bites at their homes, following up on online classes they had attended on this theme earlier.

A physics teacher at Rosary said that a few students go on to pursue pure physics at the UG and PG level in college and some have completed their doctoral studies. "The rest pursue biotechnology or medicine," she added.

R. A. Puram residents present gifts to civic workers

Every year, Raja Annamalaipuram Residents Association (RAPRA) gives Deepavali gifts to all civic service providers working in the area. This year, on October 24, the staff of Urbaser were invited to an informal meet and given gifts. They were given a cash honorarium of Rs 1000 each and a packet of sweets.

Children of families in Ragamalika Apartment, Mandaveli had a great time at the Children's Day event held on campus on Nov.14

Children above 5 years were invited to set up food stalls in the community hall. 40 children participated. There were stalls selling bhelpuri, panipuri, sandwiches, hot chocolate, popcorn, salads, vada and fruit juices.

They had fun displaying and selling the foodstuff to guests, who were residents and some of their friends. Some parents lent a hand. All children were given drawing notebooks and colour pencils by 'Glow - by Kirtilals' - jewellers, whose store is in Adyar.

Vidya Mandir students gift Deepavali hampers to Maangollai families, interact with them

By Our Edit Team

A group of senior students of Vidya Mandir School, Luz came together to spread the joy of Deepavali with residents of Maangollai, a colony at the junction of North Mada and East Mada Street on the eve of the festival (Nov.5).

They took turns to hand over gift hampers to these families at Sree Karpagavalli Vidyalaya which is in this area.

The gift hampers, comprising essential groceries such as rice, atta, cooking oil, sugar and salt, were thoughtfully put together with contributions from the school children.

Adding a special touch to the initiative, Vaishnavi Siddharth, a teacher at Vidya Mandir, contributed sweets and savouries in memory of her late father's 71st birthday.

Another student, whose grandfather is a popular caterer, also provided sweets to the hampers.

Members of Yuva Bharati facilitated the transportation of the gift hampers from Vidya Mandir to Sree Karpagavalli Vidyalaya and along with the trustees of Sree Karpagavalli Vidyalaya had distributed tokens to the beneficiaries to streamline the distribution.

The occasion also provided the students with the opportunity to connect with the community. K R Jambunathan, an alumnus of Sree Karpagavalli Vidyalaya, took the students on a tour of Maangollai where people reside in small houses in a densely habited zone.

"Each family resides in just about a 10ft x 10ft space," said Jambunathan. "The visit allowed the students to understand lives that people lead in such areas."

Kanchanamala, principal of Vidya Mandir said she and the teachers have been motivating students to participate in meaningful social initiatives.

"These experiences go beyond classroom learning, helping children understand empathy, compassion, sharing and their responsibility towards society," she said.

Yuva Bharati, a NGO is also keen to encourage and support such initiatives.

"These events provide young minds with opportunities to engage with the community," said Shivakumar, co-ordinator of Yuva Bharati and trustee of Sree Karpagavalli Vidyalaya.

Huge number of people participate in Soorasamharam

By Our Edit Team

They came from all sides - from Kutchery Road and Nadu Street and Chitrakulam side, from R. K. Mutt Road side, and from beyond Luz Circle.

Most dressed for the occasion.

At least 5000 people gathered in North Mada Street, Mylapore on Sunday night (Nov.15) to witness and participate in the annual Soorasamharam festival of Sri Kapali Temple.

People began lining up on both sides of the street, midway, from about 6 p.m. to get vantage points. Police and their volunteers had barricaded a section of the street: it served the purpose well.

Members of the Station Vigilance team assisted a big band of police to ensure the street was clear for the enactment of the evening - of lord Murugan's victory over the demons.

Since the rains of this monsoon season kept away and it was a Sunday evening, people kept streaming in as the first round of the rituals began.

Led by a commentator on the public address system, who also relayed a commentary on the significance of the festival and of the evening, the crowd roared 'Arohara! Arohara!!'

A small group of children, dressed in costumes of gods, lent a cute touch to the assembly here. A few young parents had also dressed their two-year-olds as lord Muruga, vel and all! A group of foreign tourists had their ten-minutes fill of the festival.

Though the gathering was big, there was an order this evening. Women were the majority.

As crackers were burst to signal the end of the celebration, people began to disperse, the restaurants in this zone were overflowing.
