A auto-rickshaw driver who was found badly wounded and lying on Marina’s Loop Road near the Light House zone died while being taken to hospital, succumbing to the severe injuries he had received. This came to light last week. Local area police were tipped off about the incident and they began a probe.

Police probing the case suspected two youths of Pattinapakkam. Police said that the dead driver who resided in Kilpauk was in a relationship with a Pattinapakkam woman and that her sons had objected to it and had confronted the driver before.

VINCENT's JOTTINGS

By VINCENT D' SOUZA

I was slipping into a nap last Sunday when the door-bell rang. 'The election people are here!', the watchman announced. I had told him that we were expecting the 'election people' and that I should be alerted.

Two women walked into our common space, one carrying two jute bags, looking as if she had been out shopping in Pondy Bazaar. We provided them chairs and they took some deep breaths. Then, two men arrived. One, a supervisor, and the other, a designation I forget. They sat on the steps of the stairs and kept to themselves.

'Let me help you,' I said and handled the master record book, while the senior couple in the next apartment came out and got involved. In less than 20 minutes, what had to be done of the SIR (Special Intensive Revision) was accomplished, not 100% but substantial. 'Thanks to you we could finish quickly,' said the women, both teachers in the neighbourhood.

Community activist Sridhar Venkataraman of Abiramapuram had posted some useful tips and links on his social media pages on the SIR and I studied them as much as I could. They came in handy when the 'election people' visited our apartments. Sridhar continues to post SIR updates; for he is keen that our electoral rolls are as perfect as one can make them. And this is important in a democracy.

The Election Commission has certainly not given thought to this process. Had its officers run 'test trials' in a dozen spots, they would have got useful feedback which they could pass on to the grassroots officers. Smart, simple DIY videos would have been useful - for the grassroots officers and to voters .

The Commission's record is messy. The rolls are also messy. But we the people must make an effort to help make those rolls near perfect despite the slips and frustrations.

Residents' associations and community groups have and must do more collectively on many fronts. Examples - Audit your area councillor's funded projects for the year and discuss. List major civic hiccups of your zone on the eve of the monsoon and follow-up with local agency officials. Invite your MLA to a morning walk, take him/her to the 'black spots' and get assurances; then followup.

Collective action can bring good returns for a community. Even if it begins and flows from four or six committed citizens. To do this, we must get off WhatsApp, get off the sofa and step out.

Appreciation for P. S. School alumni jubilee meet

The golden jubilee celebration by the 1975 alumni batch of P. S. School held recently in the campus must have been a wonderful experience for all those present. Reading the report in the Mylapore Times brought back warm memories. Honouring the sports heroes of the school is a commendable act.

Imagine the effort that must have gone into planning such a unique event and then having the stars of the time attend the event.

Section of Thiruveedhi Amman Koil Street haven of encroachers; why no action taken?

I am a resident of Ragamalika Apartments, Thiruveedhi Amman Koil Street, Mandaveli. I wish to bring to your kind attention a serious civic issue affecting our area.

The entire street, including the Ragamalika Apartment compound side and the OSR land park compound area has been encroached upon. The platforms are fully occupied and several individuals have put up sheds and parked cars on the pedestrian pathways, making it extremely difficult for residents and school children to walk safely.

Despite repeated complaints, no proper action has been taken so far. This area falls under Ward 171 (the councillor is Geetha Murali) and Mylapore MLA Dha. Velu's constituency.

A few years ago, the opposite side of our street was chosen for the "Best Street" award by the Corporation; because it is well-maintained. Unfortunately, our side has remained unsafe and unclean.

We want the local councillor and the MLA and local GCC officials to take severe action on the encroachers who enjoy public space freely and are a nuisance to the local community.

- Manikandan G.

Relaid road comes apart in weeks

The section of the busy road from Ragamalika Apartments end to School View Road end was relaid in early November after milling was done in August. Now the top layer of the road is coming apart and potholes have appeared. Recently, near the gate of Ragamalika Apartments, a woman fell down at one pothole and she had to spend Rs.1500 for the treatment.

We want GCC to address the pot-holed road issue urgently.

Margazhi memories of Mylapore

Memories of Mylapore are very dear to anyone who has lived in Mylapore in the 1950s -1960s. I for one cherish those wonderful moments.

During the margazhi month, shriman Papanasam Sivan's thiruppavai bhajans and procession around the Mada Streets, the hot ven-pongal served in temples and the early morning mist kept us fresh and engaged.

Preparation for Cathedral church centenary event (May 4, 1996)

Repairs and whitewashing is underway at the St. Thomas Cathedral in San Thome.

The tall spire of the church which faces the mainroad has been fully scaffolded to enable workers to access all parts of it.

Polling largely peaceful (May 4, 1996)

Polling across Mylapore for elections for the Lok Sabha as well as for the state Assembly which were held simultaneously on May 2 were largely peaceful.

However, at some polling booths, there were voters who returned disappointed after they were told their names were not on the electoral rolls and hence they could not cast their ballot.

Home-made pickles from Pushpa (May 11, 1996)

Puspha Krishnaswamy of Abiramapuram was featured in the Mylapore Times' column, 'Women at Work' for her home-made pickles business.

She said she began cooking in her teen years and soon, could handle cooking for even 50 people.

In the city, her friends who loved her food, suggested that she start a business.

She started making mango pickles first and then offered other varieties. She said she buys the fruits / vegetables when it is the season for each.

She buys in bulk, stores them and then plans the pickle-making.

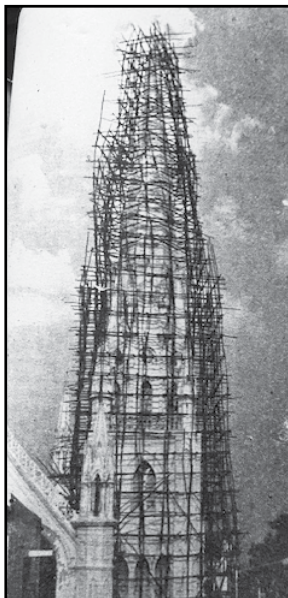

New Jain temple on Kutchery Road (May 11, 1996)

A newly-built Jain temple is to open on Kutchery Road, Mylapore. Celebrations start from May 13 and the consecration of this temple is on May 20.

Revision of electoral rolls: forms must be submitted at local area points

The Special Intensive Revision of electoral rolls has now moved to another stage.. People who were enlisted for this job were handing over the forms at every doorstep in the zones they were assigned to cover. This took place across Mylapore. These people are said to have made two visits.

Now, they are camping in the local area spaces like local schools, GCC offices, etc. which are the polling booths for your area at election time and they will receive forms filled up. They will not do the rounds of residences to collect filled forms. Some people seem to be confused about entries to be submitted in some sections in the forms. If the data sought cannot be accessed and provided, the partly filled form can still be submitted. In the second stage of this process, the data not provided will be pointed out.

60 hours of non-stop music for a saint

This Bhakthi Gana Samarpanam was held in the Sri Sundara Panduranga Temple

By Our Edit Team

For three days, Carnatic music was in the air through the day and the night in one part of the busy Dr. Ranga Road in Mylapore. Music that floated beyond the midnight hour and into the hours of the dawn and continued as peak-hour traffic took over this road.

Percussionists V. Suresh, Tiruvurur Bhaktavatsalam, Mannargudi Easwaran and Srimushnam Raja Rao.

60 hours of music, created by over 175 artistes and offered at this popular shrine. A few people walked into the venue close to midnight, drawn by the music of the violin and of the mridangam.

The eighth edition of what is called Akhanda Bhakthi Gana Samarpanam was held in the Sri Sundara Panduranga Temple, a shrine which was founded in the early 1940s.

Starting early on Sunday morning (Nov.15), groups of artistes took turns to perform on a small stage in the temple premises, some for 35 minutes, some for 50 minutes.

"We had planned for concerts for 50 hours but the response was so good that we ran the festival for 60 hours," said V. Suresh, senior ghatam artiste who was part of the core group of organisers.

From K. Gayatri to M. A. Krishnaswamy and his brother Sundareswaran, from Mannargudi Easwaran to Embar Kannan and Palghat Ramprasad, a galaxy of artistes performed; and did so free.

The idea for a non-stop music offering crystallised in 2015. Quite a few Mylapore-based music artistes frequented the temple and gladly supported the idea of the 'samarpan'; the first edition ran non-stop for 48 hours. Said Suresh, "Since Raghavendra swami was known to be into music, our musicians are ever-ready to participate."

Said Poornima, a member of the family which manages this temple, "We are happy to host the music fest every year. The core group of artistes curate, organise and manage the concerts."

Artistes Sundar Kumar, Kunnakudi Balamuralikrishna, A. S. Murali, Bhuvarahan and Guru Raghavendra, besides Suresh form the core group, the engine of this unique festival. They draw up the schedule well in advance, fix the accompanying artistes and not keep this unconfirmed and even pool money to pay for the audio system and hospitality.

Said Suresh, "Carnatic music artistes enthusiastically support this festival. This makes it very unique."

This Tamil play on lord Krishna looks at less-known stories

By Our Edit Team

SBS Creations is premiering its latest Tamil production titled 'Krishna' on Sunday, Nov.23, 6.30 p.m. at Narada Gana Sabha, Alwarpet.

Directed by S. B. S. Raman, with music by Lagudi G J R Krishnan and dance choreography by Manavini K R, this is a two-hour long music-dance theatre. But Raman has looked at his version of 'Krishna' differently. As Raman puts it - Everyone knows of the childhood pranks in Brindavan and the adult's upadesam at Kurukshetra. What happened in between? What makes Krishna the ultimate strategist?

Says Raman, "The story of what happened in that period few know of, that made him a shaper of events and changer of destiny. All my productions have happily included dance collaborations as part of the theatrical experience. Since Krishna as a theme has been done to the point of becoming tiresome in dance productions, I have used a medley of songs with dance to convey the period from birth to killing of Kamsa as a part of the narrative." A PARK SET TO CHANGE

By Our Edit Team

October 20, 1940.
The day when the Corporation of Chennai formally inaugurated K. Nageswara Rao Pantulu Park in Luz.
Raised and developed on a pond locally called arathakuttai.
85 years later, this park is set for a complete renovation.
If you go by what the architects and civic engineers have visualised, the park will have a different look.
So we took a close look at some areas of this park which may or may not survive the changes. There are at least two dozen large, old trees that create a canopy for this park. These should survive. There are twin walk pathways, designed as inner and outer paths which are the favourites of all walkers. Little may change of these paths.

The Chess Square, the children's play area and sandy pits - the favourites of children, will disappear.
So will be the 'dead' water fountain and the open-air gym. Sometime ago, we counted over 20 built-up structures in the park - from motor rooms and washrooms, to fountains, clock tower and pump houses.
The latest were the gyms for men and for women. These marred the verdancy of the park. Some of them may go but newer structures are visualised.

The park had quiet nooks: where people sat on benches and remained to themselves. The furniture also provided space for nomads and junior salespeople to rest or relax at high noon and for residents of Abiramapuram and Luz Avenue to chit chat. The contours of such spaces may disappear.
Over the years, some spaces in the park were turned into sports courts, dance training stages and cricket pitches. And some people asked - must a park be a public space for such activities?
