EVERYTHING FOR PETS

Name of the shop: GPR Pet Shop
Address: 78, Mandaveli Street, R A Puram.
Owner: S. P. Raviraj
Phone: 9677170744
Timings: 9 am to 9 pm all days.

GPR Pet Shop sells food for pet cats, birds, fishes, mice and more. There is also pet food that lasts longer, which comes in handy when owners need it when they go on a vacation.

The four-year-old shop sells pet accessories like collars, leash, a range of body belts, feeding bottles and masks, as well. Other requirements like tank motor and air stones (for rearing fish) are also stocked here. All the products are procured from branded manufacturers, we are told.

An ardent pet lover, Raviraj says he also does his bit to feed and take care of stray, abandoned and distressed animals. "Anyone interested in taking care of country dogs, can contact me. I will find and give them for free," he says.

Pet owners can contact Raviraj for consultations as well. "I can guide them on handling injury, sickness, routine checkups, adoption and more," he adds Raviraj.

CHENNAI METRO

Major, multiple traffic changes in Mandaveli, Mylapore, Luz

By Our Edit Team

Major traffic movement changes are expected this weekend in areas like R. K. Mutt Road, Mandaveli, Luz, Mylapore, R. H. Road and Dr Radhakrishnan Salai in connection with Chennai Metro’s rail line work.

Over the past 24 hours, Chennai Metro has been sharing details and maps on the major changes with some institutions where there are large numbers of people at work / study.

In one communication that was shared by a campus, a map showing the major changes has been posted.

One part of the flyover that runs north from Royapettah High Road / off V. M. Street, will be brought down. Hence, traffic movement off Dr R. K. Salai will be changed.

Since Luz Circle is to be a major arena of work, with two underground stations planned here, traffic will be curtailed on R. K. Mutt Road between the tank zone of Sri Kapali Temple and Luz Circle.

Vehicles will be routed through the inner streets - Warren Road, Dr Ranga Road and Luz Avenue - and these areas are going to be abuzz over the next 2 / 3 years.

Mandaveli being the arena for an underground station, traffic flow is being diverted here – already many parts have been barricaded now.

Chennai Metro has still not formally, publicly communicated to the neighbourhood the changes on the anvil.

VINCENT's JOTTINGS

By VINCENT D' SOUZA

How does a 120-year-old, foldable pallankuzhi set survive in a household?

I must ask its current owner, a resident of Mylapore, that question.

Perhaps, the set survives because it is being taken out often for the seniors to amuse themselves when boredom creeps in; or its owners are proud of retaining family heirlooms.

The pallankuzhi set is one of seven invaluable things that may find a place in an exhibition that the Sundaram Finance Mylapore Festival's 2024 edition will host in early January.

Five years ago, we thought of and executed a similar show at the Sannidhi Street square. We put up 25 things - transistor, cooking vessels, walking stick, cassette recorder, a directory and a book stand and more. The articles fascinated Gen X and we noticed amused parents patiently explaining things to their curious little ones. And we decided to have the exhibition again and call for support from Mylaporeans. (If you wish to share an object, please call our office staff at 24982244)

Why do we choose such ideas for what is, at its core, a street cultural festival that is almost two decades old? To get the community involved in different ways.

Hours before I sat down to pen this column, quilt-maker Varsha wove something more out of a thread I shared as an activity at the Festival. How could we get, say 20 women, who enjoy handwork / stitching / embroidery, to create work of the size of a handkerchief and collect all of those handworks and mesh them into a wall backdrop?

This would be a simple community-driven work of craft that fits well with the spirit of the festival.

Curating the core performances for the Festival is simple and straight. The effort and the challenge is to get people involved in an activity and enrich it from all sides.

I vividly remember the year when we invited a senior, celebrated folk arts master to train the children at the CSI School for the Deaf in San Thome for a short performance on the main stage. The teachers at this school used their familiar modes of communication to train the students and it worked.

We are talking to the small Post Crossers community in the city on ideas that can work for the Festival. First on the board is the creation of a special post card which showcases the Festival and will be released that weekend.

We also have plans for children - they can pick up a specially-designed, blank post card at the venue, use crayons and colouring pens to illustrate a note they can write on the card and have the card posted to their friend or grand-ma, in a box placed at the spot.

We welcome small, community-at-the-core ideas that flow with the spirit of this Festival. Have an idea that you and your friends can collaborate on? Ping us at 24982244.

Recalling Dr. Badrinath's early years

I met Dr. Badrinath at H. M. Hospital in 1969 when I took my father for cataract surgery. My cousin, K R Venkataraman was his first patient. In those days, Dr Badrinath used to give appointments to only four patients per day, maintained a time schedule and never gave preference to VIPs. When I was in his room with my father, the secretary of a well-known personality called the doctor for an appointment. Dr Badri politely refused saying even a former chief minister had to wait for 15 days.

At that moment, a tailor boy who got his eye pierced while stitching buttons came in. Dr Badrinath asked us to wait for some time, took the boy to the operation theatre and performed the surgery. He did not charge any fees from that boy. He charged us Rs 250 for the surgery.

In 1972, I took my father to Dr Badrinath in Vijaya Hospital. He remembered my family members and enquired about them. He charged Rs 250/- for the cataract surgery, this time too.

Memories of Chellammal, Lady Sivaswami schools

The photo of Chellammal school brought back memories. I studied in Chellammal Bala Vidyalaya and Lady Sivaswami Ayyar Girls School. This school is very close to my heart. In our time, Sathyabama teacher was the Headmistress. Mythili teacher was our maths teacher.

I was N. Chitra those days.

How reliable are weighing scales in stores?

People buy vegetables in the market but who checks the calibration of the scales used by the vendors? Is the department of legal metrology conducting regular checks?

The government department must conduct impromptu checks and seize the scales which fail to meet the standards. Vendors should be asked to calibrate the scales and use only standard ones which are approved.

The department must also conduct checks at departmental stores. The stores must be instructed to keep a weighing scale at the billing counter so that those who want to check the quantity, can do so.

Interesting Columns

Regular columns on past school life in Mylapore published in Mylapore Times make interesting reading.

There was one by a St.Bede's School alumni some time ago and then by a P. S. School 'old student'. These columns not only share stories of campus life of another era but are also archival records. The report of Stella Maris 'old girls' meeting was also delightful. Please continue publishing such columns.

MY STORY

Tribute to Benjy

By MOAHAN VENKATESAN & VARSHA SUNDARARAJAN

Spiralling, sky-rocketing frustration on a hot August afternoon in 2015, a crate in the corner of a noisy airport warehouse with trolleys wheeling past and the roar of planes landing and taking off.

Precious cargo, our little Benjy had landed after two flights from Australia.

Dogs in crates travel on an empty stomach to prevent vomiting which might enter the wind pipe and cause death mid-air.

Six hours and multiple encounters with

Festival, towering over everyone on his dad's shoulder, a temporary companion on cuddle visits to those who loved dogs, Benjy was an extension of us and invitations to us, included him.

Benjy sniffed out an injured crow, a hurt squirrel and finally, an injured parrot, a few weeks before he left us. They recovered and regained strength in that infamous crate and left.

Two days after Benjy's passing, we found an bureaucratic depths of apathy, a filthy, tired, hungry and dehydrated Benjy was 'cleared'.

A comfort to many who had lost their pet, a regular feature at the annual Mylapore injured crow. Yes, he had taught us well in sniffing out injured beings and helping them recover.

We suspect Benjy was with an elderly person who passed away and left him homeless.

Rescued by RSPCA Toowoomba, Queensland, Australia, we adopted him in 2014 and moved with him to Madras in 2015.

Vets at SKS Veterinary Hospital in R. A. Puram valiantly tried to save his life all night, but our beloved Benjy left us in the early morning of 3rd October, 2023.

His last journey at the BlueCross animal crematorium was on a stretcher that went through horse stables and cow sheds.

Our little Benjy-man had the last laugh - he loved the smell of horses, cows and their poo too!

● Moahan Venkatesan and Varsha Sundararajan are residents of Alwarpet.

The kumbhabhishekam at Sri Draupadi Amman Temple in Mylapore was Friday, Nov. 24 morning. Preparations have been underway here for a few days now and there was much buzz at the small but popular temple which is on Sri Mundagakanni Amman Temple Road, Mylapore.

A large number of people participated in this event.

CELEBRATING PADMA SUBRAHMANYAM

Dancer Padma Subrahmanyam's 80th birthday is being celebrated with a special event on Nov.30 evening at Narada Gana Sabha, Alwarpet.

There will be presentations on Padma's scholarly works and dance performances including one that fuses Bharatanatyam and Kandyen dance.

Open to all. Starts 6.30 p.m.

READING GROUP MEETS ON SUNDAY

Silent Reading Group is meeting on Sunday, Nov.26, 3 pm onwards at Nageswara Rao Park, Luz, at the Chess Square; people can bring their books to read in the quiet. Books are also available here. The session is for an hour.

The hosts want to feature one writer at every meet (meets take place every fortnight) and welcome recommendations / leads. Ping 9840223902.

Karthikai Deepam Delight

If the rains hold, the steps of the tank of Sri Kapali Temple will be a carpet of lit lamps on Karthigai Deepam evening, this Sunday.

Srikanth and his 30 volunteers, as they have done every Deepam, will set up over 3000 earthen lamps on Saturday and fill them with oil and light them up by dusk on Sunday. "The water level in the tank is rising and we want to work safe," Srikanth said. The expenses for this visual delight is met by him and his friends.

That Sunday evening, the chokkapanai will be lit in Sannidhi Street after 6 p.m.

On the first day of the Karthigai season, there were many devotees of lord Ayyappa at the Sri Ayyappa Temple in MRC Nagar last weekend.

They were here to formally start the rituals and prayers in preparation of their pilgrimage to the Sri Ayyappa Temple in Sabarimala.

A senior handed over the malai to the devotees to signal a period of fast, prayer and devotion. While some of them said they would eventually make the pilgrimage, others said they would be visiting the MRC Nagar temple daily.

SWEETS FOR DEEPAVALI

These People Made Goodies at Home

Five Mylaporeans share their experience of making sweets and savouries at home, for Deepavali. V. Soundararani spoke to them.

K. Janaki
Abhiramapuram

K. Janaki, 68 years old, is a housewife, and has been making Deepavali snacks for many years - guided by skills and tips shared by her mother-in-law, Saroja Balasubramaniam. Janaki has been living with her mother-in-law since 1975. "She is 88 now and her passion for cooking and food remains. Every Deepavali, it's only home-made snacks for us all these years," she said.

"The proportion of dough for making mixture and thenkuzhal she follows is ideal and unique," said Janaki. "I personally love to make wheat halwa. The process excites me. How the halwa turns out finally is fascinating. We ensure it consumes less ghee!"

She had made halwa, maalaadu, manoharam, mixture and thenkuzhal this year. Janaki lives on 3rd Street, Abhiramapuram.

Sandhya
Mylapore

Sandhya R., is an IT professional and she says she makes time for the festival snacks though she has a demanding job. "We never buy readymade snacks. My mom and mother-in-law even prepare the lehiyam at home. We make it a point to buy all the raw materials, crackers and other things only from the local vendors to lend them our support," said Sandhya.

Her mother-in-law stays with her and they both adhere to tradition.

So they made ribbon pakoda, murukku, thenkuzhal, milk sweets, peda, rava laddoo and kaju katli this season. "The texture and taste of our milk sweets has won us lots of appreciation," she said.

And she shares a cooking tip: while making gulab jamun, a portion of home-made paneer added to the dough makes a huge difference in taste.

Sandhya is a resident of R. K. Mutt Road, Mylapore.

Karpagam T. retired as a superintendent in the state government's education department and is 74 years old now. "Never ever have we bought snacks from shops," she says. Her family loves crunchy savouries and these are made round the year but there are specials at festival time.

"When we make murukku, light roasting of the flour makes them crunchy and neat," she says.

Preparations here start a week ahead, once the processing of flour is over. Karpagam is careful in her plans - five sweets and five savouries for Deepavali. These are made in the time between preparing food daily for the family. "If we get motivated to process the raw material, the rest of the cooking is easy," she said.

This season, the goodies here included rava laddoo, maa laddoo, halwa varieties and murukku thenkuzhal.

Karpagam resides on T. S. V. Koil Street, Mylapore.

Karpagam
Mylapore

Anuradha Sivakumar
Alwarpet

Anuradha Sivakumar is 65, a housewife and enjoys cooking. When it comes to Deepavali preparations, apart from the routine snacks, she says she tries making new sweets in small batches.

She had prepared rava laddoo rich in nuts, maa laddoo, mixture and chakli this year.

"When we cook at home, we can make sweets in large quantities for the cost one pays for at shops," she says. "And when we do this we can be generous in sharing sweets among friends and relatives."

Anuradha lives on C. P. Ramaswamy Road.

Saraswathi
Mylapore

Saraswathi Rajaraman, a housewife, says she is very fond of making Deepavali snacks. "Every year, I make them well in advance," she said. This enables her to courier a pack to her daughter's family in the USA.

She made badam katli, kaju katli and walnut katli.

She is an expert at making sraw thool, a savoury. Saraswathi says she picked up all the finer points of making sweets from her mother Alamelu. "Mother showed me how to make rava laddoo and sandesh," she said.

Saraswathi resides in Alamelumangapuram.

Obituary

Hours after the passing away of famed ophthalmologist and the founder of Sankara Nethralaya on November 21, Dr. S. S. Badrinath, the funeral rites of this Mandavelipakkam resident were conducted at a city crematorium.

hospitals including the HM (Hirendra Mehta) Hospital.

Dr. Badrinath, who had been impacted early in life by the travails of children with serious eye problems, ensured that a good part of Sankara Nethralaya's services were provided to the poor and people from low-income group, raising the monies from payments made by patients who could afford the treatment here.

Generous donations from V. D. Swamy, C. U. Shah, Rata Tata and Nani Palkhiwala, among others, enabled the expansion of Sankara Nethralaya under Dr.Badrinath's leadership.

Alongside, the research here provided low-cost treatment procedures and led to new findings in ophthalmology.

Dr Badrimath was highly influenced by the swamis of the Sri Kanchi Mutt; he had operated on Sri Chandrasekarendra Saraswathi-swami.

He was decorated with the Padma Bhushan and the Dr B. C. Roy awards.

The simple, visionary doctor, aged 83, who had been spending the last phase of his life at his residence, had often told his senior colleagues that work at all the Nethralaya centres should go on even in the event of his passing, that patients should be affected.

Dr Badrinath was a vitreoretinal surgeon who started on a mission in 1978, at a 17-bed hospital on College Road, Nungambakkam and converted it, with handsome donations from well-wishers, into a top class eye-care centre that was known across India and abroad.

He did his schooling in the city, completed medical studies at Madras Medical College and studied ophthalmology at a college in the USA. He worked there for some years and on returning to Madras, worked at a few city

Condolence Meeting

People will be paying tributes to Dr. S.S. Badrinath, founder of Sankara Nethralaya, who passed away earlier this week at a condolence meeting to be held on Nov.25.

The meeting will be held from 10 a.m.

to 12 noon at Narada Gana Sabha, TTK Road, Alwarpet. The late doctor's colleagues at Sankara Nethralaya, a few patients and well wishers will speak.

The meet is open to all.

Rasikas can book online December Season concert tickets on this platform

By Our Edit Team

Online entertainment box office platform – mdnd.in – which has its operations in the Mylapore zone, has launched its facility for the sale of tickets to the December Season concerts at city sabhas.

Rasikas can buy season tickets, daily tickets and also book tickets for multiple events in one go. More payment gateway options have been provided for easy payment. Rasikas can now merely show their QR codes or ticket IDs for admission to the venue.

The company has tied up with the city's leading sabhas to provide this service, says K. Kalyanasundaram who promotes this platform.

Among the sabhas whose tickets you can book are Narada Gana Sabha, Kalakshetra Foundation, Kartik Fine Arts, Tamil Isai Sangam and arts promoter MadRasana.

Besides tickets, canteen tokens for meals offered by leading caterers /restaurants will also be available for purchase on www.mdnd.in, during the Season.

A 5% discount and preferential seating is being offered to people who buy meal tokens on this website. Some of the caterers and restaurants whose tokens will be available on MDnD.in are Sashta Catering Service, Sashtalaya Caterers, Kaylir Canteen and Thaligai.

Fun, creative time for kids, honours for teachers

By Our Edit Team

There were two parts to the Children's Day celebrations hosted by the Jeth Nagar community last weekend at Narayani Ammal Kalyana Mantapam, Mandaveli.

One was the fun and creativity part for children. The other was to honour all teachers who reside in the nagar.

The event began with an exhibition of art works of children of this area. Later, artist and civic activist S. Shivakumar held a class on the basics of drawing and painting.

Children also presented snappy music and dance recitals.

Teachers who were honoured were - Dr S. Devaji Rao, Dr Ramadesikan, Dr Shankar Padmanaban, Dr. Chitra Krishnan, Sadagopan Rajesh, Uma Ramganes, S. Shivkumar, B. Pushkalambal and Ranganayaki Kasthurirangan

Those who teach music and fine arts were also honoured. They were - Yogam Santhanam, Saradha Sethuraman, Sharadha Jankiraman, Sujatha Mohan and Hemalatha Ramachandran.

The awards were given by local ward councillor, Amirda Varshini.

A team from Ekadaksha, a school for children with special needs, made a presentation - to create awareness on how such children should be handled. Balakrishnan conducted a lively quiz themed on Mylapore.

- Inputs for report from Preetha Rengaswamy

The Carnatic music festival that marks the thirteenth anniversary celebration of Arkay Convention Center in Luz (opposite Vivek's store) enters the second week this weekend. The inauguration was held on November 18 and the fest began with the nagaswaram concert of SRGS Mohandass (photo below).

Music concerts will be hosted here up to December 2, a fifteen-day series consisting of 30 concerts. Top artistes are featured daily. Concerts are webcast live on YouTube @arkayramakrishnan. This will be followed by the December Season concerts.

MONSOON IS EXPOSING STREETS WHICH ARE IN BAD SHAPE

Reported by Madhan Kumar

The monsoon may have set in but the rains have been patchy.

Across Mylapore zone, though there have not been any serious sights of flooding or civic mess, the season is showing up the streets where water stagnates and streets and roads which have not been relaid.

water and this splashed on pedestrians.

Mandaveli Street has been in bad shape for months after it was dug up for civic work. It was relaid in parts but not properly.

Now, the rain is showing up the long series of potholes which get filled with rainwater – from the Mandaveli Post Office end to the Dhyana Ashram end.

CIT Colony's Gayathri holds kolam workshops in Japan

By Our Edit Team

CIT Colony resident Gayathri Shankararayan has been skilling small groups of people in Japan who have made trips to south India, with the basics of kolam.

Gayathri, who is a kolam scholar and practitioner, has been touring Japan with her family and has been invited to hold kolam workshops in some cities.

Workshops were held at Tokyo, Osaka and in Nara and about 16 Japanese attended each workshop.

"We are on a private tour but some of my well-wishers invited me to teach them," said Gayathri.

She says many participants are learning Vedanta and are followers of Sri Dayananda Saraswathi and have visited India.

"I find that there are lots of cultural similarities in India and Japan. The Japanese are humble and courteous. They place high value on Indian culture and customs. The kolam workshop participants were very attentive and quick to learn the art," said Gayathri, via WhatsApp.

Gayathri's doctoral study was based on kolams. Besides conducting workshops and giving talks, she continues to design thematic kolams at her doorstep every day.
