By Our Edit Team

A few resolutions were formally recorded at the area sabha meet hosted for Ward 126 residents on Saturday, Oct.17 in Mandavelipakkam. Councillor Amirda Varshini and officials of state agencies of the area took part.

Among the key ones were the following -

Distribution of new contact numbers of TANGEDCO’s local unit: The department is requested to provide updated contact numbers of the local units to all residents in their respective areas, enabling the public to report electricity-related complaints, power failures.

Safety measures for coastal residents: The civic authorities are requested to implement immediate safety and precautionary measures for residents living in coastal areas during the monsoon season. A cross section of residents of Mandavelipakkam, Mandaveli and a part of Mylapore participated.

VINCENT's JOTTINGS

By VINCENT D' SOUZA

The summer of 1981. End of Year One at Loyola College. I was on the lookout for some training in a newspaper during the holidays. I landed at this small printing press in Chintadripet. Owned by a DMK biggie. He owned a Tamil weekly and had just launched one in English. 'Rising Sun' was a pot-pourri of stories about the city.

The editor was welcoming and sent me to work on some soft stories. The sports shops of Chepauk, the old, old spots on Mount Road, the wholesale fish market in Chintadripet . . .

One weekend, he suggested that I visit the Zoo, which was still surviving in the My Lady's Park zone. I had been to the zoo only once when I was a kid. "Take a good look," my Ed told me. "If you have to put your head inside a cage, do it," he joked.

I didn't mind working for what was a rag - some 4000 copies circulated at shops across the city - we never asked if all of them were sold. I was happy with the experience of working inside a printing press and of going to the hot spots of our city.

The hours spent in that printing press had prepared me well when, some years later, I was assigned to handle the Entertainment page of 'Indian Express' newspaper - given the freedom by the then editor Saeed Naqvi to design the page, engaging senior pre-press staff at this daily.

Since the early years of 'Mylapore Times', now in its 33rd year, I have welcomed teens and college students who are keen to be trained. Our annual summer camps, tough ones, excited a few youngsters while some others found the going demanding. Chasing stories, interviewing strangers and filing reports on time calls for perseverance and discipline.

To mark Children's Day, we invited school students to do local stories through November and the good ones got published. A few who earned their bylines now work in mainstream media.

This November, we are inviting students to maintain a Journal. The idea popped up after we ran an engaging Journaling workshop some months ago at Ranade Library in Luz. This is a November-long assignment and I hope many senior students of Mylapore will grab this opportunity and make good use of it. If they do it well, the journal will be a passport to higher studies in campuses that appreciate such creative work.

Nageswara Rao Park: observations of users

● Nageswara Rao Park requires walk paths and native plant varieties which ward off mosquitoes growth. Beautification should not be a distraction. Create spaces for common man to spend mornings and evenings with family / friends. Providing safe drinking water and a paid toilet facility corner would help park users.

- Sriram Balasubramaniam

● All that the park needed was mending of the walkways and planting saplings where trees had fallen / were dead. Could have been done with just a few lakhs of rupees. And the park was shut down for one year. Previously the park had about 25+ benches all around. Will GCC provide them?

- Mohan

● Lantana is an invasive plant species which destroys all the native vegetation.

Water stagnates in many areas in the park.

Don't know how GCC listed them for the park. It should be removed immediately - if planted

- Ramdas Naik

● So, basically nothing native (in plants/ saplings) in the park. And they planted Lantana, one of the most invasive species destroying native vegetation in our forests.

- T. S. Mahadevan

Monsoon woes of Narasimhapuram

Residents of Narasimhapuram, located off Canal Bank Road, face extreme hardships during rains due to the accumulation of water on the narrow road - with no functional stormwater drain system. The undulations on the road result in water accumulation and stagnation. Also, unchecked sewage flows into the adjacent Buckingham Canal from the several encroachments located on both sides of it. This violation is never checked.

- R. Sethu Subramanian

Appreciation for Traffic Police

We appreciate Traffic Police for the outstanding traffic management arrangement made during the Navratri season and implemented in and around Mada Streets of Mylapore. I noticed a significant improvement in traffic flow.

Explosion at Head Constable's residence (July 12, 1997)

By A. Mangala Bhavani

Head constable Gopalakrishnan's family, living in G N Chetty Street, off Kutcheri Road and Bazaar Lane, had a narrow escape. On the night of July 9, it is said that a "smoke packet" landed through a window, in the bedroom, where Gopalakrishnan's daughter, Gowri, and her child were sleeping. Gopalakrishnan was watching TV in the hall. On seeing the "packet", Gowri grabbed the child and rushed out of the bedroom. Gopalakrishnan poured water on the 'missile' as a precautionary measure and rushed out to see if he could spot anyone. In the meantime, Gopalakrishnan's son-in-law, Sathyanarayanan, attempted to bring the packet to the hall, when it exploded. The explosion was very weak. Sathyanarayanan's fingers were injured, but no one else got hurt. Inspector V. Krishnamoorthy at E1 Police Station in Mylapore, has been put in charge of the case and its investigation.

Cricketer S. Sharath is probable for Asia Cup (July 5, 1997)

By A Ashok

Many years ago, P P Sridharan, a father of an 11-year-old, hit his son because he came late from his school. He didn't believe it when the son claimed he was attending cricket coaching. Today, Sridharan is very proud of his son, S. Sharath, who is being considered for an India cap for the upcoming Asia Cup in Sri Lanka. The final spot is between Sharath and Robin Singh. A resident of Karaneeswarar Street in Mylapore, Sharath did his schooling in San Thome Hr. Sec. School. He is currently working as a senior accountant at Chemplast Sanmar Limited. His uncle, P P Swathy, the coach at his school, cricketers V B Chandrashekhhar, Abdul Jabbar, and K. Srikanth have guided him and given him the confidence and encouragement he needed. Sharath's hard work, determination, and self-confidence are the reasons for his success, according to his mother.

BEST KOLUS

Meenakshi Devaraj, ECR-based kolam researcher, story-teller and historian judged the entries for the Mylapore Times Kolu Contest.

Here is her note -

Most of the participants had tried to arrange their dolls around a particular theme rather than simply displaying them in the usual way. Some had even extended their themed displays to different parts of their homes.

When you see a kolu featuring dolls preserved through generations, it feels as though you are travelling back in time, sharing in the nostalgic memories of the family. Some collections were said to have been purchased by their ancestors in Mylapore, making them even more special.

Few had painstakingly created dolls from scratch. The arasa-mathadi pillaiyar of Kolavizhi Amman and the Puri Jagannath Temple were such creations.

One kolu featured iconic places in Chennai, represented through handmade cards mounted on sticks. This little display certainly caught my attention.

Mythological themes, such as the Mahabharata, are quite common in kolu displays. But a kolu presented a novel interpretation by recreating the Chakravyuham, the intricate battle formation from the Mahabharata.

Another kolu showcased inspiring achievers from every state and Union Territory of India. What made this display even more interesting was that it was accompanied by a dedicated blog and a YouTube video documenting the collection. Perhaps this is a glimpse of how future kolus will evolve to be!

● Prizes to the winners and gifts to all participants have been handed over - in person and by post.

NOTE: Photos here are only a part of kolus.

'Odd' death at MRTS station: questions about station's state, security

By Our Edit Team

A woman inside the premises of Thirumayilai MRTS station tells her daughter she wants to use a washroom and goes searching for one. She does not turn up. Her daughter panics. Registers complaint with Mylapore police.

A dead body is located in an unused section of the premises of the station days later after a search. It is that of the 'missing' woman.

Police claim she may have fallen through a small opening in the floor. She fell into an area that is never used and is dark and dinghy. The dead woman's family are not buying the police version.

The death once again raises issues on the state of MRTS stations. And its maintenance and management. Many parts of Thirumayilai MRTS station are never maintained and in darkness. Some stink. Some have been boarded up.

These were areas the Railways wanted to rent out and failed.

Women commuters say they are on their alert when they use this station after dusk.

Messy job of contractor upsets residents of a Mylapore street

By Our Edit Team

Civil contractors working on small projects in Mylapore's inner streets have a way of getting their projects done but leaving behind problems for neighbours.

Here is one case that Sridhar Rajagopalan has reported – since his aged mother is facing the brunt of a contractor's 'irresponsible' actions. A contractor recently completed building flats in Senkazhaneer Pillaiyar Koil Street, Mylapore.

His men are said to have dug up a portion of the street all the way to Kutchery Road to provide for power supply connection. In the process, this section of the narrow street is in a mess and has got messy as the monsoon started.

Said Sridhar, "My mother lives there by herself and the workers have dumped the mud by the wall of our house at 130, Kutchery Road. There is absolutely no accountability on their part."

Sridhar says Chennai Corporation must act against the violators and fine the person and get him to set right the dug-up portion of the street.

SALE OF KOLU BOMMAIS STILL ON

A few dozen hawker stalls continue to display kolu bommais on North Mada Street despite the end of the festival and the monsoon breaking out. They should be here till this weekend and some, till the next. But all of them open for sale only after 3 p.m.

Many have marked down the prices of the bommais. So this is the time to visit the street and buy the bommais you had an eye on but may have found them stiff-priced.

MONSOON 2026: GROUND REPORTS

WATER STAGNATION MINIMAL THIS FAR

Water stagnation in many areas of Mylapore was minimal though there was continuous, light-to-medium rainfall throughout the night of Oct 20.

A drive down P S Sivaswami Salai where residents have suffered for years due to flooding is now water stagnation-free due to the extensive drains network that was built. However, water was seen stagnating alongside the wall of Vivekananda College.

This morning, GCC officials had arranged machinery that was seen sucking out the water to make the road free for pedestrians and motorists

NOTE: If there are serious issues caused during the monsoon like water stagnation for over 24 hrs, trees posing danger, sewage pollution, etc – share a news note of 5 lines and appropriate photos. Mail – mytimesedit@gmail.com. WhatsApp -73056630727

SOS RESPONSES

Civic agencies seem to be fully geared up to address severe issues created by the monsoon.

After the heavy rain late Saturday night, some areas in Alamelumangapuram and in V C Garden Street were inundated with water which stagnated.

Officials of the local unit of Metrowater swung into action the next morning and pumped the water into their lorry tank and the areas were dry under an hour.

In the normal case in the past in such a situation, the water would be led out elsewhere in the same area but in this case, the water was sucked into the lorry using pipes and motors and this will be let out where the outflow will not affect people.

Vivekananda College provides free breakfast to all its poor students

By Our Edit Team

Vivekananda College (Autonomous), run by Ramakrishna Mission Vidyapith, has begun on October 5 to provide free breakfast for economically poor students of the college.

The project was inaugurated by swami Satyananananda, president, Ramakrishna Math, Chennai.

The breakfast is provided to students already enrolled in the college's 'no cost' noon meal scheme.

The college has partnered with Akshaya Patra to execute this service.

The college has provided noon meals on all working days since 2004 to students from economically disadvantaged sections of society. The scheme was started by Swami Satyapriyananda.

They make the best of free samples of fresh sweets

By Our Edit Team

When you walk into the Shree Anandhaas Sweets store on North Mada Street, the first counter displays the latest sweets made at the chain's cloud kitchen. There are at least six varieties on a given day.

The practice at Anandhaas is to offer a tiny sample of say two three sweets on sale. These are kept in kutti paper plates and shoppers can sample them.

A sales trick to get people to consider ordering sweets here. Now, a few people have made extra smart use of this offer.

They drop into the store every now and then, act as if they are looking to locate and buy some savouries or sweets and then pick up a plate or even two of the sweets to sample. The sales staff say at least two people keep dropping in frequently and there is no way to even politely turn them away!
