MADE FRESH FOR YOU

VINCENT'S JOTTINGS

By VINCENT D' SOUZA

I have observed life on either side of Kamarajar Salai, a key street in Raja Annamalai Puram, for over 30 years.

And the changing face here has reflected the changing neighbourhood.

Little shops tell us back stories of our lives.

Thirty year ago, much of both sides of this street that slices R. A. Puram at its south end, featured small houses, some tiled, some roofed, some hotch-potch. There were a few small stores that met everyday needs, one or two pawn broker shops and the dry flour and masala grinding unit that survives to this day!

Over the next decade or so, changes took place not only on and off the road but also in the tiny colonies where four-foot wide lanes criss-cross and lead to the main road on the east side of what is called KVB Gardens, Karpagambal Vana Bhojana Gardens, an outpost for the gods of Mylapore.

There were more shops, and there was variety. Meat and fish, gift articles and readymades, ice-creams and baked food.

In the inner spaces, houses grew taller and began to be rented out to small families who could pay better and wanted access closer to their workplace and schools of their kids.

Today, the area has exploded. Hundreds of bikes use the road side as parking lots. Thousands of families reside in better-done houses and the shops are looking smarter, some air-conditioned too, food spaces are open till midnight and ATM kiosks have been set up here.

Look across Mylapore and the small, stand-alone shops and stores world has changed. Continues to change.

Not all are successful. The pandemic has hit many.

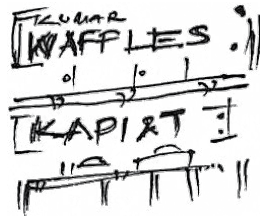

And recently, the Chennai Metro work has caused many to shut down or move elsewhere.

And yet, the new stores are at the core of a neighbourhood. There are shops that now sell fresh flowers of all kinds, shops that offer new forms of coffee powder and eating joints that serve their samosa and bajjis in fancy plates and designed sauce!

So a Waffles and a Cold Coffee store sits between shops selling coconuts and idli batter.

Entrepreneurship is getting better though the competition is tight on the street. Newer ideas are tried out. A young woman from Nanganallur makes a special festival offer from her mada vedhi store and youths from Madurai pick up a franchisee to sell rose milk.

So if the branded cafes are holding up in Alwarpet and R. A. Puram, the newbies of the 'temple tank' zone are also enlivening the eating out and shopping experience.

Reminders for someone's Metrowater bills?

In spite of paying water taxes promptly on time, I am getting reminders at regular intervals for non-payment of taxes by someone else.

I visited the office in person with all relevant documents and explained to them but they have not corrected their records. Lately, I received reminders from three different persons. Can Metrowater authorities solve my problem?

TANGEDCO. Why power outages?

There have been frequent power outages over the past few days in Mylapore, Mandaveli and San Thome areas. I stay in Thatchi Arunachalam Street and I notice many people have complained to TANGEDCO about this issue. Despite the increased tariff, the supply is erratic and there are unscheduled power cuts, ranging from a few minutes to several hours.

Metrowater: listen to this issue

Metrowater supply was stopped for more than two weeks and was resumed only from last Monday the past week at Mylapore's Kutcheri Road - Area 124. Can Metrowater authorities share information on local problems?

GCC: act against street dogs

The movement of stray dogs in packs is on the increase in Mylapore. They bark all through the night disturbing our sleep apart from creating fear among residents. Dogs chasing two-wheeler riders in the area are common. There has been no action taken by GCC for a permanent solution in spite of many complaints.

Why keep gold under pillows?

We read about a robbery in Mylapore where lots of gold jewels were stolen. It is surprising to see people keeping their jewels only under their pillows! They do not trust the lockers at the bank. Those who visit their house frequently and their servants get to know such places where jewels and money are kept and wait for suitable times to rob them.

MY STORY

My Madras

By C. K. GARIYALI

I first came to Chennai in 1973. I was then assistant collector in Coimbatore and I was in the city to attend a conference. That is when I got my first look at Fort. St. George. This place became an integral part of my career as an IAS officer.

I also got my first exposure to Anglo Indians here. I met Eric Stracey who was the DGP of TN police. And I went on to meet many other Anglo Indians. I attended their dance and music events and I met them at city clubs. I also got to know them at our Anglo Indian schools like St. Bede's.

It was in the early 1970s that I came to live in R. A. Puram after being engaged to Dr Rajkumar. It was a very quiet place, an extension of Mylapore I would say. I cannot forget the margazhi bhajans on the street here and of the Sri Vinayaka processions when we all came out of our houses to offer prayers.

In Delhi, I was in Old Delhi and I was not exposed to this culture.

My mother-in-law would take me to Sri Kapali Temple in Mylapore and this link has stayed with me since.

When I was collector elsewhere and tourism secretary, I had started the dance festivals in the temple of Chidambaram and then at Mamallapuram.

So one day, while in Kapali temple, the idea of a dance festival came to mind. And the first Vasant Utsav was held in 2004. T. M. Krishna and Sangeetha Sivakumar performed on two evenings and Dr Padma Subrahmanyam danced on the final evening. I organised this fest from my own funds. It was tough. Today, it is a ten-day festival.

I got to learn more about the city while pouring into the archives when I was in charge of Museums and Archives and at Fort St. George. It gave me a better understanding of this city.

I had two terms at Raj Bhavan, as the governor's secretary and served four governors.

Back to R. A. Puram where I have resided. In the old days, people used to go to sleep by 8 p.m. But my husband and I would step out for a night movie show. Since I loved non-vegetarian food, we would dine at places like Buharis and Bilal and Waldorf.

I recall that we could get fried rice at Waldorf for Rs.20.

Another place we went to was the old Chung King restaurant above Musee Musicals.

The Golden Dragon at the Taj was always tempting but we could not afford it. So we saved money and dined there once a year.

● C. K. Gariyali was an IAS officer for 36 years. She has just released a coffee table book on Madras. Contact - 8754436830

Specially-abled Deepak offers bags and diyas for fest season

By Preetha K.

Shoba Shanmugan and her specially-abled son S. Deepak, residents of Lazarus Church Road, keep coming up with items which can be sold at festival time.

“We have four sizes of these bags. My son Deepak does acrylic painting on the bags. We also make customized orders for a minimum order of 10. The bags are made after the order is placed,” says Shoba, a determined mother who wants to make her son independent.

The bags cost Rs 25, Rs 50, Rs 75 and Rs 100, depending on the size.

Supported by his mother, Deepak also makes painted diyas, masala podis and natural insecticide made with country drugs like vasambu and pacha karpooram can be used in wardrobes.

“These packets costing Rs 40 will last for three months,” says Shoba.

Their other products include painted earthen diyas with candle, ghee or plain ones and painted pots which can be used for pooja, garden and fancy display.

For placing orders, contact Shoba Shanmugam at 9444953733 / 9445635743. The products can be couriered too.

Shanthi Vihar

Shanthi Vihar restaurant used to be an iconic place in Luz. For many it was a hang-out in the 70s.

Its idli-sambhar combo was as popular as that of Ratna Cafe.

They would pour ghee on the idlis and that was new. Their sweets were also very popular.

The stewards would be smartly dressed, with caps - the kind we saw at India Coffee House.

This place was a hub for all kinds of people - there were school and college students who hung out here. Then there would be staff at local area banks and offices who dropped in for a snack or for tiffin.

For us, this was much like the Drive-In Woodlands kind of space.

Its promoter says the project is inspired by the Montessori and Reggio Emilia educational philosophies with a unique Indian touch.

The inauguration was symbolically made by Dr. Shobana Mahadevan, a well-known gynaecologist and Dr. Vasudha Prakash, awarded educator, social entrepreneur and professional academician.

Nikita Viswanath

The venture is promoted by Nikita Viswanath, who has been an arts teacher for over ten years.

The playschool is open to kids upto 4.5 yrs in the morning session. The curriculum focuses on project based learning to grow the child's "creative confidence".

In the evenings, the program, called Playgroup46, is for children upto 12 years. The program offers archery, art, dance and movement, theatre and such activities that help in the personality development of the child.

Nikita says the trained facilitators "follow the internally developed curriculum" that is inspired by Montessori and Reggio Emilia with an Indian touch in this spacious facility.

Ideas for a better world. Students present them at meet hosted by Sprouts

The Sprouts IDEA Tank competition, held on September 10 in Alwarpet, witnessed a display of innovation and creativity from some of Chennai's talented young minds.

Hosted at the CP Art Convention Centre, the event brought together 12 teams from schools across Chennai, each showcasing their visionary ideas and solutions to real-world problems.

Teams from schools such as Vidya Mandir, M. Ct. M, DAV, Sir Sivaswamy Kalalaya, and NEST competed with enthusiasm, presenting their ideas to a panel of judges and an engaged audience.

From sustainable energy solutions to cutting-edge technology innovations, the ideas covered a wide spectrum.

Notable presentations included a team from DAV – Pallikaranai, which proposed a novel approach to using AI to help in counselling and another from Vidya Mandir which introduced an App aimed at improving disputes connecting lawyers and people.

Sprouts Montessori High School is on Luz Avenue.

Vidya Mandir's 69th annual School Day

On August 30, Vidya Mandir School, Mylapore, hosted its 69th annual School Day at The Music Academy.

The event began with a vibrant and melodious performance by Vidya Mandir's orchestra, featuring over 60 vocalists and an ensemble of students playing the mridangam, tabla, violin, flute, veena, and kanjira.

The middle school students then brought to life the Trojan War from Homer's Iliad, transporting the audience into a world of mighty Olympians and ominous prophecies.

The Sanskrit play

enthralled the audience with the Samudra Manthana, or 'The Churning of the Ocean of Milk,' from the Vishnu Purana.

The Thamizh play paid homage to Mylapore's Kapaleeswarar Temple, capturing the sentiment, 'Kailaye Mayilai: Mylapore is Kailash.'

The Hindi play, performed by students from class VI and above, explored the Katha Upanishads, enacting the tale of the fearless Nachiketa, who confronted Lord Yama in his pursuit of self-realization.

The evening continued with a dance drama depicting the avatars of Lord Rama and Lord Krishna, culminating in a breathtaking Pinnal Kolattam.

To cap off the evening's show, the high school students delivered a taut adaptation of Agatha Christie's The Unexpected Guest, keeping the audience on the edge of their seats.

THEME KOLU SETS

The hawker stalls on North Mada Street now have the full display of kolu bommais.

We spotted some theme sets here.

A guru and sishyas one, a teppakulam scene, Ayodhya lord Rama trio, an ice-cream seller and a pani-poori seller and a football team (perhaps a chess team for 2025?!) While they all looked bright, the craft work was average. And the prices, stiff.

These theme sets are the kind that people who plan to set up a theme set alongside their main kolu.

Chai, rose milk, snacks

By Baskar Seshadri

Remember Udipi Boli House on Venkatakrishna Road in Mandaveli? It shut down months after it opened. In that space, Coffee Chai Vadai has opened.

The shop is also supplying fresh cow milk of the Surabhi brand.

It also offers rose milk made from cow's milk. A bottle costs Rs.40.

This is a place for simple snacks - a variety of vada in the morning and snacks in the evening that includes bonda, sundal and sandwich. Yes, they serve coffee and tea.

Jayanthi Sundar had been dealing with Surabhi Dairy products for a long time. Village Milk was earlier on Third Cross Road in R A Puram and had moved to this location recently.

Coffee Chai Vadai is on 14, Venkatakrishna Road, Mandaveli.
